Accused U.S. Employe Refuses To Answer in Probe of Red Activity

Rothschild Declines To Make Reply

Uses 5th Amendment As McCarthy Recites Communism Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edward M. Rothschild refused today to say whether he is a member of the Communist Party or whether he ever stole secret documents from the government printing office.

Rothschild, a bookbinding machine operator at the government printing plant, told the Senate Investigations subcommittee he declined to answer on the ground that he might incriminate himself.

Chairman McCarthy (R - Wis) told the slightly built, bushy haired witness that the charges made against him in secret testimony before the subcommittee are perhaps "the most serious charges ever made against any government official."

"We have testimony to the effect that you stole secret documents from the government printing office — among other things you stole a secret code," the Wisconsin lawmaker said.

Both Rothschild and his wife, Esther, were named as Communists by witnesses who testified before the Senate group yesterday.

With a shake of his head, Rothschild declined McCarthy's invitation to comment on the charges.

Then, in a reedy voice, he parried all questions about his associations, alleged Communist connections and other activities with the repeated statement:

"Under the Fifth Amendment I refuse to answer that question."

McCarthy has declared there is every indication the printing office has had an "extremely slipshod" security set up in the past.

McCarthy made that comment despite assurances at yesterday's hearing from Harry D. Merold, production manager at the printing office, that it would be extremely difficult for any unauthorized person to see secret material at the plant.

"I know you have a new security setup now," McCarthy told Merold.

McCarthy noted, however, that Rothschild still works at the printing office, ahthough he said testimony was available to the office's loyalty board that (A) both the man and his wife were Commu-

NAMED IN TESTIMONY. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rothschild leave a public hearing of the Senate Investigations Subcommittee. One witness before the group identified Rothschild, a bookbinder at the Government Printing Office, as a one-time member of the Communist party. An earlier witness said Mrs. Rothschild was an active worker for Communist party organizations in the late 1940s.

Bank Robbers Grab Cashier And $160,000

Gunmen Abduct Employe, Force Him To Open Vault, Escape

FLORAL PARK, N. Y. (AP)—Daring gunmen grabbed an assistant cashier on the lawn of his home this morning, forced him to open his bank's vault and escaped with $160,000.

They took the cashier with them, but dumped him out a few miles away.

Eric Gronewall, 44, told police that he was leaving his Bellemore home to go to a branch of the Franklin National Bank, a man stepped out of the bushes.

He had a gun, and a canvas bag. Jamming the gun into Gronewall's side, he warned him not to cry out, adding, "We know all about you and the bank."

They got into Gronewall's car and drove to the bank. Gronewall became aware another car was following, but the gunmen said sternly, "Don't you dare turn around."

The gunman, about 30 dark haired and medium height, chatted as they drove along, said he had been in the army and before that had worked in a bank, but didn't say where.

He had planned while he was in the army to rob another bank, he said, but when he got out found it had closed.

Arriving at the Franklin Branch in Floral Park, a prosperous Long Island community, the gunman marched Gronewall into the bank, forced him to open the vault and after taking the money, marched him back to his car again.

They drove to Bellerose, Queens. Gronewall was told to get out. He never got a good look at the man in the other car, he said. His own car was found a short distance away after he notified police of the holdup.

West Agrees To Reconsider Austrian Pact

Will Resume Work On Treaty if Soviet Sticks to the Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Big Three Western Powers have agreed to Russia's demand that work be resumed on a comprehensive peace treaty with Austria—if the Soviets are willing to stick to the issues and finish the job.

The United States, in a note similar to ones dispatched from London and Paris, said it is willing to shelve the abbreviated treaty which the Western nations have been pressing on this understanding:

"That there will be no extraneous issues raised and that the Soviet government is prepared to conclude a treaty for Austria which will insure Austria's political and economic independence."

After more than 200 sessions by deputy foreign ministers of the four nations met with no success in agreeing to a full Austrian treaty, the United States, Britain and France proposed an abbreviated version.

The main point of difference between the two drafts is that the short form omits a clause calling for the return of industries which

Indiana Police, Guard Alerted In Phone Strike

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Indiana state police were ready to protect workers in the reopened Clinton telephone exchange today and the Indiana National Guard was alerted to move against any further violence in the Indiana Bell Telephone strike.

A cable cutting left Muncie with most teletype and long distance service dead. It was the second time that city of 60,000 had been isolated by a severed cable, and it occured just after a power failure had blacked out three fourths of the city.

Several more persons were arrested after incidents on tense picket lines. The strike by the CIO Communications Workers of America was in its 28th day.

Gov. George N. Craig sent state police to Clinton yesterday afternoon to escort workers into the telephone building. Service in the western Indiana city of 6,000 had been shut down for the second time during the strike. Clinton does not have dial service.

The city was quiet as the state officers led workers and supervisors into the building and remained on guard. The building still had broken windows and light bulbs from a disorder Saturday.

Too Soon To Tell, Says Democrat

GOP Prediction of Gain In 1954 Voting Disputed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Republican claim that the GOP will strengthen its control of the House next year brought a Democratic retort today that it's too early to make predictions on the outcome of the 1954 voting.

Democrats are counting heavily on tradition to recapture House control in November 1954. Tradition says that the party in power loses seats in an off-year election, in which there is no presidential contest.

Only once in modern times, in 1934, did the voting deviate from that tradition.

Right now Democrats trail Republicans in the House by five seats, the count being 218 Republicans, 213 Democrats, 1 independent and 3 vacancies. All three of the vacancies were Republican seats in the 1952 election. All 435 seats are filled every two years.

Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa), who, as chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, has the job of directing the GOP's bid for continued control of the House, claims Republicans will pick up 25 more seats next year.

He conceded, in an interview, the possibility of some Republican losses but said there would not be enough to change the balance of power.

Simpson said about 15 present Republican seats might be called "shaky." These include seats in which the Republican margin of victory last year was 5 per cent or less.

Simpson's Democratic counter-

Edgar Sanders, Jailed As 'Spy' With Vogeler, Released From Prison

NICHELSDORF, Austria (AP)—Edgar Sanders, British businessman jailed by Communist Hungary for nearly four years as a spy, crossed into Austria today a free man.

The Red Hungarian government pardoned the 47-year-old Briton last night and expelled him from the country where he and American Robert Vogeler were sentenced in February, 1950, on charges of espionage and sabotage. Vogeler was released in April, 1951.

Like Vogeler, Sanders came across the frontier to freedom at Nickelsdorf, a little Austrian border station. Russian tanks on maneuvers and Austrian farm combines cluttered the narrow road on the Austrian side of the frontier.

Cross In British Car

Sanders crossed the frontier in a car of the British legation in Budapest.

He looked pale, wore his customary glasses and a grey suit.

Shortly after Sanders crossed, the Italian legation car bearing Vincenze Sciotto, an Italian, also reached Austria.

Sciotto was convicted of espionage and sentenced to four years in prison in 1951.

An Italian foreign ministry spokesman in Rome earlier today declined to comment upon Sciotto. Spokesman said that publicity on the case might harm members of Sciotto's family who are still in Hungary.

Had Known of Arrest

The spokesman said the ministry had known of Sciotto's arrest and that the Italian government had sought repeatedly to have him freed. The spokesman said Sciotto was employed by a Hungarian construction company.

Sanders smiled out of the car and waved in reply to the greetings of newsmen who shouted: "Welcome to Austria."

Sanders, cousin of film star George Sanders and accountant for the Budapest subsidiary of the International Telephone and Telegraph Co., and Vogeler, East European representative of IT&T, were arrested in November 1949 and sentenced after trial the following February.

Vogeler Freed in 1951

Sanders was sentenced to 13 years in prison and Vogeler to 15 years. Vogeler was released in April 1951 after negotiations between the American and Hungarian governments.

During their trial both Vogeler and Sanders "confessed" their guilt, and both the British and American governments promptly branded the confessions the result of Communist pressure interrogations.

As a result of Sanders' conviction, Britain broke off trade rela-

Third Death Results From July 19 Crash

Harold B. Harper, 49, of 461 Davids St., injured in a head-on automobile collision on Route 30-S near Caledonia July 19, died this morning in White Cross Hospital at Columbus.

This was the third death resulting from the collision between cars driven by Dan Matthews, 33, of 906 Oak Grove Ave. and Willie Pickens, 22, of 505 Jefferson St.

A Marion Power Shovel Co. storekeeper, Harper received a fractured skull, broken right leg, multiple bruises and abrasions and shock. First taken to Marion City Hospital he was listed in "critical" condition the day following the accident. Later he was transferred to White Cross Hospital, where his condition remained unchanged.

Pickens pleaded guilty to two charges of manslaughter in Marion Municipal Court July 21. He was later indicted by the Marion County Grand Jury. The charges were filed by the state highway patrol as a result of the deaths of H. W. Crissinger, 71, of 131 Dix Ave. and Harry Mathias, 56, of 278½ E. Church St.

Another passenger in the Matthews car, Lowell Schwaderer, 38, of 610 N. Prospect St. suffered a broken leg in the collision.

The five men were on their way to a Cleveland Indians-Boston Red Sox ball game in Cleveland and were eastbound when Pickens' car, which was westbound, swerved to the left into the path of Matthews' car.

Harper's body was to be returned to Marion this afternoon to the Merle H. Hughes Mortuary. No funeral arrangements were completed up to noon today.

Poor Prison Treatment Described by Returnees

PANMUNJOM (AP)— Seventy-five more Americans streamed back to freedom today as the great Korean War prisoners exchange entered its third week.

Besides the Americans the Reds turned back 75 British and 300 South Koreans—50 more than the 400 daily the Reds originally promised.

Again tomorow, the Communists planned to step up deliveries. They said they would return 456 Allied captives—75 Americans, 75 British and 356 South Korean. It will be the largest single group returned.

1,105 Returned To Date

In 14 days, the Reds have returned 1,105 of the 3,313 Americans they claim the held, a figure far less percentage-wise than the number of British—570 of 921—returned.

Brig. Gen. Ralph Osborne, chief of the Munsan Provisional Command, said the number of Americans repatriated probably will increase when the Reds start emptying the next prison camp.

Several liberated Americans said they believed the next POWs will come from Camp No. 3 at Chongsong. One prisoner estimated it holds 200 to 300 Americans captured in the early months of fighting.

Two days of bad weather, the U. N. Command reported, prevented shipment of Red prisoners from Koje Island to Panmunjom and will cut deliveries to 600 North Koreans Wednesday and none on Thursday. The daily average had been about 2,400. The U. N. Command said it hoped to resume regular schedule Friday or Saturday.

Poor Food Described

Tuesday's liberated Americans and British came back smiling, but their gaunt bodies showed the effects of many months in North Korean stockades.

One repatriate, a prisoner for more than 25 months, wryly described the food.

"We ate like pigs," said Pfc. Earl C. Barnard of Martinez, Calif. "I cringe when I think of it.

"They brought the food in wooden troughs. It was soupy sorghum and rice. Of course you had meat in your sorghum—worms in the sorghum, that is.

"At times there was enough for all of us. At times there wasn't."

Other liberated Americans again told of fellow prisoners being taken away by the Reds at about the time they were scheduled for repatriation.

"They took away at least 40," Sgt. George W. Burke of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., recalled. "They just pulled them out after telling them. 'We don't know where you're going.' "

'Popular Guys' Penalized

"If you were too popular you stood a good chance of being taken out. The guys they took were classified as 'reactionaries' "—prisoners who stubbornly resisted Communist indoctrination.

The U. N. Command reportedly renewed demands Tuesday for the return of all Allied prisoners. Reliable sources said the U. N. Command handed the Communists a strongly worded statement at Tuesday's meeting of the joint committee for repatriation of prisoners of war.

The U. N. statement reportedly:

1. Demanded that the Communists give assurances they will return all captured Allied soldiers.

2. Replied to Communist charges of "atrocities against Allied-held Communist prisoners."

Radio Gives Example

Communist propaganda mills continued to pour out stories of what they call the brutality and horrors of U. N. POW camps.

Communist Peiping radio Tuesday gave an example. It told of

17th Case of Polio Is Reported Here

The 17th case of polio to strike the county was reported this morning by Dr. M. M. Weinbaum, city health commissioner. Latest victim of the disease is Richard Frazier, 13, of 226 E. Farming St.

He was taken to Children's Hospital in Columbus Saturday after becoming ill Friday. His case was diagnosed as polio Monday. The boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Frazier. The parents and four other children in the family were given gamma globulin yesterday and placed in quarantine.

This is the tenth case recorded by the city. Seven others have been reported by county health officials this summer.

Korean Truce Will Last, Ike Aide Believes

Sherman Adams Calls Signing of Cease Fire Greatest Achievement

DENVER (AP) — President Eisenhower's top aide says the Chief Executive believes the Korean truce is going to last.

And the aide, Sherman Adams, lists the signing of the truce as the administration's "greatest deed" during its first seven months in office.

Adams, former governor of New Hampshire, arrived at Eisenhower's vacation headquarters here yesterday and will remain for a few days.

Will Fly to New York

The President will leave Denver by plane tonight for New York, where tomorrow he will take part in dedication of a 32 million dollar federal housing project, register for the New York municipal elections to be held this fall and hold a round of conferences. He will fly back to Denver tomorrow night.

Adams talked about the Korean truce in a radio interview over a nationwide network last night.

He was asked whether he believes the administration can make the Korean armistice last. He replied that he thinks it will last, and that Eisenhower also believes "the truce is going to stick."

May Avoid Special Session

Adams also declared that:

1. He believes Eisenhower can avoid calling a special session of Congress to consider increasing the 275 billion dollar national debt ceiling, "but it is going to be nip and tuck."

2. His (Adams') "purely wild

E. J. Flynn, Democratic Leader, Dies in Dublin

DUBLIN (AP)—Edward J. Flynn, American Democratic Party leader, died here last night.

The 61-year-old Democratic national committeeman and leader of the Bronx, New York, had been vacationing here. He died in a hospital.

Long in ill-health he sailed from New York for Ireland on the Mauretania July 25. He went aboard the liner in a wheelchair. His wife and 17-year-old daughter Sheila sailed with him.

Flynn was credited with James A. Farley in obtaining the Democratic presidential nomination for Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932 despite the opposition of Tammany Hall.

He succeeded Farley as Democratic national chairman in 1940 and managed Roosevelt's successful third term bid.

Suggests 11 Nations for Peace Talks

U.N. Rejects Soviet Demand That China, N. Korea Join Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Russia proposed today that the Korean peace conference be made up of five so-called neutrals in addition to the six countries who took part in the actual fighting.

The Soviet resolution called for inclusion of the following countries.

The United States, Britain, France, Russia, Communist China, India, Poland, Sweden, Burma, North Korea and South Korea.

The Soviet move came as the General Assembly's 60-nation political committee rejected a Russian demand that Red China and North Korea be invited to take part in the current U. N. Korean debate.

Contrast With U. S. View

Russia's effort to turn the Korean parley into a sort of round-table affair contrasted sharply with the United States demand that the talks be restricted to representatives of the "two sides" who fought in Korea.

The committee plunged head-on into the general debate after turning down the demand for inviting Red China and North Korea here.

U. S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. insisted the peace conference must be limited to the countries who took part, with the possible exception of Russia. He said he had no objection to Russia's particpation if the North Koreans and Chinese Reds want it.

Want Broad Representation

Britain and France both advocated a broader representation than that sought by the United States.

British minister of state Selwyn Lloyd said Britain "does not wish to perpetuate this concept of two sides, to have the peace conference as a kind of political Panmunjom."

He specifically urged the inclusion of India.

Maurice Schumann, French foreign undersecretary of state, said his country proposed that "all those who can usefully participate in the negotiations should, in all good logic, be invitted."

He said the conference should not consist "of two opposing camps confronting one another."

If the Korean question is first settled, other Far Eastern ques-

5 Enter Pleas Of Innocent To Indictments

Not guilty pleas were entered at their arraignment this morning in Common Pleas Court by five persons indicted Wednesday by the Marion County grand jury. A September trial date was scheduled for one.

Only two represented by attorneys were William Dale Snavely for whom a plea of not guilty was entered yesterday by Russell Wilhelm, and Willie Pickens for whom a not guilty plea was entered by Frank Wideman and J.W. Jacoby.

Snavely was indicted by the grand jury on charges of breaking and entering, and larceny, while Pickens was indicted on two counts of manslaughter in the second degree. His trial was set for Sept. 15.

Not represented by legal counsel were Paul E. Holycross, indicted on 10 counts of arson and attempted arson; Herman Dale Sharrock, two counts of attempted arson; and Roland Dilling, breaking and entering.

In their cases, Common Pleas Judge Paul D. Smith entered pleas of not guilty and will appoint attorneys to represent them, as required by law.

Snavely has admitted stealing approximately $1,000 in merchandise over a period of several months prior to his arrest May 17.

Pickens was the driver of one of the vehicles in a two-car col-

Rhee, Mossadegh Could Touch Off War

Two Old Men Have Much in Common

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two strong-willed old men, Syngman Rhee and Mohammed Mossadegh, walk dangerously close to the world's powder keg with a lighted match in their hands.

Both move toward the climax of their lives in their late 70s.

And the best the world — the non-Communist world, at least — can do is watch them, hold its breath, and just hope they'll be shrewd and nimble enough not to stumble or fumble.

Rhee, the peppery President of South Korea, is 78. Mossadegh, Iran's Premier, is believed close to 78 too. Both march into the future as determinedly as if they had a lease on life. But—

If Rhee, exasperated by the forthcoming peace conference, wrecks the truce by attacking the Chinese, what then? The Chinese seem capable of slaughtering Rhee and his people.

Would the United States and the United Nations stand idly by? Or would they go in once more to bail out the South Koreans, thus renewing the war which might soon become bigger than Korea?

Mossadegh became Iran's No. 1 man Sunday when the Shah fled into exile. What now? Has Mossadegh so weakened the structure of government that, unwittingly, he has opened the door for the Iranian Communists to bounce him and take power? That would make Iran another Russian satellite.

What would the United States and the United Nations do in that case, since Iran is strategic in the Middle East and its rich oil fields are important to both Russia and the West?

Rhee has made it abundantly clear what he wants in Korea: unification under him. Mossadegh's ultimate ambition for Iran is far from clear, unless it is making over the country to his liking.

Both men have been in the politics of their homeland most of their lives. Because the two are intense nationalists, both are national heroes. Both use their popularity for all its worth.

Where they differ profoundly is in the way they go about getting what they want.

The chunky, well-fed looking Rhee is defiant as a rooster. He keeps the aircrackling with pronouncements on his attitudes and desires. Not so Mossadegh.

That lean man with the mournful face looks hungry. He has fits of fainting and weeping spells which he manages in public places. He doesn't cry in private conferences.

He has stalked success like a cat, eliminating opponents one step at a time, letting his people and the world guess where he'll jump next.

For half a century there was no doubt about the prominence of Rhee among his Koreans. But Mossadegh, a Johnny-come-lately to high office, was a minor figure in Iran until he became premier a few years ago.

For years he had been a minor member of Parliament, making a hobby of criticizing the government. Although he was reportedly one of the richest of Iranians, he consistently backed liberal measures for the people.

He swam to the top on the wave of nationalism which swept over Iran after World War II, appealing to the Iranians' ancient pride, denouncing foreign interference in his country's affairs, and finding the British a handy target.

For 40 years, through their ownership of Iranian oil production, the British had been a force, perhaps the controlling force, in Iran. Mossadegh led the Iranians in throwing out the British and taking the oil.

That's a problem that has never been settled. But Mossadegh moved from one internal crisis to another until now the question of a settlement on oil is overshadowed by the question of Iran's whole future.

Rhee, on the other hand, had been a Korean rallying point most of his life. It was only natural he should become president of South Korea when the people had their first chance to elect one, in 1948.

He began fighting the Korean monarchy for reforms in 1894. For this he was jailed and tortured. He came to this country, was educated at Harvard and Princeton, returned to Korea when the Japanese grabbed it. He soon had to flee.

From then until the end of World War II he was in exile, fighting for Korean independence, and for more than 20 of those years he had been considered by Koreans the president-in-exile of the Korean Republic which didn't exist.

Mossadegh, too, had his troubles with monarchy in his homeland. Long ago he was jailed by Reza Shah, father of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, who had to flee from Mossadegh Sunday. Mossadegh evened an old score with that one.

Balance in Sight

Steel Jam Breaking Up; Supply Catches Demand

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The great steel jam may be cracking up at last. Orders are coming into the mills a little slower. A few cancellations have been reported. For the first time since 1949 a balance in supply and demand appears in sight.

Customers of the copper, zinc and lead producers also are reported showing caution in placing orders very far ahead. Here the great uncertainty is price with world markets unsettled.

In steel the easing comes from many sources. Farm incomes have fallen as prices skidded. So farmers aren't buying farm machinery the way they were. And the makers of farm machinery are laying off workers, and cancelling future orders for steel.

The big General Motors fire at its Livonia, Mich., transmission plant is crippling three of its auto making divisions. Output cutbacks there may cut steel orders for later in the year.

Military tank and truck production is being cut back, lessening demand for steel from that quarter.

The weekly magazine Steel notes today the bottleneck in hot-rolled carbon steel bars is beginning to crack and "may herald the return soon of a ready availability of most forms of steel."

The bars are the most universally used form of steel, the magazine points out. "Almost every end product made of steel contains some amount of a hot-rolled bar or its descendant, the cold-finished bar," Steel says.

Steel scrap prices are showing some softness. This market is widely accepted as an indicator of future steel business.

One of the big reasons for steel finally swinging toward balance of supply and demand, of course, is the increasing supply. The great postwar expansion program of the steel industry has added impressively to the total capacity of the nation's steel mills. Newer and more efficient mills are pouring out a record tonnage.

But the steel mills aren't worried—at least the larger companies aren't. They have big customers still going strong. The construction industry is putting up more buildings this year than ever before—fewer homes, perhaps, but more office and store buildings, more industrial plants. Big highway projects are in the works. So are institutions like hospitals and schools.

Legion Would Have U.S. Quit United Nations

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio American Legion Sunday voted to ask the United States to withdraw from the United Nations.

A 35-man executive committee passed a resolution offered by the North Canton post urging withdrawal so the United States could again become "a respected powerful nation, unentangled in a helpless . . . world government, wherein several associates desire to exploit American economy for their own good."

The resolution will be presented before the Legion's national convention in St. Louis Aug. 31.

The committee also passed resolutions calling for an objective teaching of Marxist Socialism in Ohio's public high schools and criticizing the use of textbooks sponsored by world organizations such as the United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO).

They left Marion Friday for Bell, Tenn. where they will spend a few days with the sergeant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Overton before going to Monterrey, California where he will be reassigned.

36 Suffer Poisoning In Accident on Ship

PUSAN, Korea (AP) — Thirty-six persons suffered gas poisoning last night when a supposedly empty cylinder leaked chlorine into the holds and engine room of the American freighter Sea Coronet in Pusan harbor.

The 36, including 15 crew members, 20 Korean dock workers and an American soldier, were released from hospitals after treatment.

Maj. Charles W. Dutreau of Oklahoma City, port chemical officer, closed off the cylinder.

POW Plays It Smart: He Keeps Mouth Shut

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea (AP)—Cpl. Harold E. Humphreys figured his communist captors would decide he knew all about the atomic bomb if he told them he once worked in a restaurant inside an A-bomb reservation. So he kept his mouth shut.

"I knew I'd be in for a rough time," Humphreys, of Harriman, Tenn., said today following his release at Panmunjom.

Morral Twins Have Duty Role In 'Big Switch'

Army Cpl. Donald G. Wright and his twin brother Pvt. Richard E. Wright, grandsons of Mr. and Mrs Wade Wright of Morral, are serving with the Munsan - ni Provisional Commaand in "Operation Big Switch" repatriating U.N. and ROK Army prisoners of war.

Last assigned to the 563rd Ambulance Company at Hwachon, Korea, the Wright brothers are ambulance drivers.

The Provisional Command cares for repatriated prisoners from the moment they are returned from Communist hands at Panmunjon. Medical and administrative processing is handled in the "receiving line" at Freedom Village and each repatriate is issued a minimum clothing allowance before being transported to Inchon and home. Originally set up in April for "operation Little Switch," the joint Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Command was reactivated in June in time to make all preparations for "Big Switch."

Pvt. Richard Wright, whose wife, the former Miss Donna Jean Collins, resides at 411 W. Church St., with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W Collins, entered the Army in July of 1952 He received his basic training at Camp Pickett, Va. Arriving overseas last May, he holds the Korean Service Ribbon and Distinguished Unit Emblem.

Cpl. Donald Wright entered the Army in November of 1951 and completed his basic training at Ft. Meade, Md. He arrived overseas in September of 1952 and his decorations include the Distinguished Unit Emblem and Korean Service Ribbon.

Oysters Flourish During Dry Spell

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Maryland land farmers were hit recently by a lengthy dry spell. During the same drought, underwater farms were prospering—as a direct result of the dry spell.

Chairman Arthur H. Brice of the Tidewater Fisheries Commission explained that during the drought less fresh water ran into the Chesapeake Bay, thus boosting the amount of salt which favors the growth of oysters and other seafoods.

Who Comes After Rhee?

While the sickly tragedy of war's aftermath is stumbling through the news of the prisoner-of-war exchange in Korea the time is right for Americans to declare that Syngman Rhee's successor as Korean president is overdue.

It has occurred to the hard-bitten realists in the British Foreign Office that if this man who has been so long and violently in controversy should provoke an attack during the truce Britain would not feel bound to defend him. Canada has served warning to the same effect.

The United States, one of 16 U.N. nations pledged to protect South Korea during the truce, likewise should make it plain that its obligation does not include going to war in the event President Rhee refuses to stay at peace.

He has no right to assert his personal independence at the risk of reopening a war which has been closed by mutual consent of the principal participants.

Even though the State Department's trust in Rhee is to all outward appearances without misgiving or flaw, he stands on a shaky political footing in Korea. Former Secretary of State Acheson thought at one time it was too shaky to justify any further dealings.

The men who died, suffered and risked injury in Korea in a war to turn back aggression did not go there to save Syngman Rhee. They went to save a proposition that South Korea should not be ridden to ruin by aggressors.

The next step in that process would be to set up a South Korean government with a broader mandate than ever was attained by Syngman Rhee.

Everybody on Stage

With that remarkable facility for long-distance analysis which makes them endlessly amusing, heavy thinkers are telling us all about the newest climax in Iran's politics.

Obviously, they are spoofing. They know no more about the ins and outs of palace intrigue in Persia than they do about the same thing in Washington, D. C. Besides, there is nothing mysterious about current events in Tehran.

The Shah has fled with his beautiful wife and the crafty prime minister is perched astride the government because that is the way it's always done in musical comedies. These folks have got hold of an old script prepared by Sigmund Romberg.

In Act III, the loyalists will rout the insurrectionists in a spirited but brief encounter, the young king will be restored to his throne and everybody will be on stage for the grand finale. Actually, the only thing that has been changed since the musical comedies used to exploit this theme is the Communists. They used to be called villains.

They still should be. It would be less confusing.

Most Vital Task

When Clarence B. Randall, chairman of the board of Inland Steel Co., accepted a presidential appointment last week to serve as chairman of the new Foreign Economic Policy Commission, he called it "a vital task."

Mr. Randall's commission, which will have 17 members when it is fully manned, will have the most vital task of any group in government below the level of Congress.

Circumstances have given the United States direct responsibility for the economic welfare of all nations which must carry on trade in order to live. American free enterprise is the hub of world commerce.

Circumstances have not bestowed on Americans, unfortunately, the ability to understand that this responsibility cannot be cast aside or even neglected without costly and unpleasant consequences.

The contest between free societies and slave societies will be settled ultimately according to their relative abilities to sustain themselves economically. The Soviet Union is going after foreign trade hammer and tongs, relying on the United States to be caught asleep at the switch.

The Foreign Economic Policy Commission is charged with responsibility for keeping the nation intelligently awake.

Call the Dog

An old timer in the news business gets to wondering sometimes if dog days will happen again in his lifetime.

He remembers how news used to dry up with the shallow wells in the latter half of August. Nature was in the sere of the leaf and the blade, and so was human nature.

It was too late for summer and too early for fall. Congress had gone home and the Big Hush clasped the Land of Opportunity like a loving mother, smothering all its squeaks and squawks of anger and protest. "There was not a new anywhere," as Mr. Bennett's editor once replied to his news-hungry publisher's anxious inquiry.

But now—

Greek islands torn apart by earthquakes . . . tornadoes in North Carolina . . . prisoner exchanges and more Communist treachery in Korea . . . insurrection in France . . . diplomatic friction between the United States and Britain over India . . . the New York Giants in a horrible slump . . . schisms in the unions . . . squabbles over this and squeaks over that.

It will take a long lifetime to get back to the way dog days used to be, when orneriness lay dormant just before Labor Day each year.

Creed for Joint Chiefs

By David Lawrence

First Duty to Nation Regardless of Administration

Something more than a mere change in personnel is dramatized as Adm. Radford, chairman, and an entirely new Joint Chiefs of Staff take over from Gen. Bradley, chairman, and the three service chiefs who held their posts under the Truman administration.

The change is one of military philosophy toward civilian control. It can be of profound importance to the security of the United States.

Under the Truman administration the military chiefs were tools of politics. They couldn't say publicly what they thought without fear of reprisal — as happened to Adm. Denfeld, chief of naval operations.

What they said in the open was usually dictated, therefore, by political considerations. Speeches delivered by some of them were often made to fit in as replies to political attacks on the administration.

Though such motivation was always officially denied, the record shows an oft-repeated coincidence of military pronouncements that suited the political whims of President Truman or the pro-British point of view of Secretary Acheson.

When Gen. Bradley, just a few weeks after the dismissal of Gen. MacArthur, couldn't remember who in the White House telephoned him to summon the Joint Chiefs to consider the future status of MacArthur, almost everyone was surprised at his poor memory.

When it was discovered later that the Joint Chiefs — our supreme military authority — had not initiated or recommended the MacArthur ouster to the President and only had concurred when the word was relayed to them by Gen. Bradley as to what the President wanted, people on Capitol Hill, including the late Sen. Taft, were chagrined.

From that time on — as the speeches by Gen. Bradley seemed to be political expressions ordered by the administration — the late Republican leader declared publicly he had no confidence in the then-existing Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Gen. Bradley was an excellent soldier in the last war in Europe. He has a likable personality and has many admirers as a military man. But his judgment on global strategy has been subject to public criticism by many other prominent military men.

When he told a House committee in the autumn of 1949 that America could dispense with large aircraft carriers and he openly disparaged the concept of amphibious warfare on a large scale, he didn't realize that within eight months one of the largest amphibious operations in American history would be carried out on the peninsula of Korea or that, without aircraft carriers, the fighter planes of the U.S. Air Force could never have been transported to Korea in time to meet the crisis of the early days of the war.

Every military commander knows that the kind of war waged in Korea under the Joint Chiefs of Staff of the Truman-Acheson administration was not the kind of war that should have been fought. The military chiefs never said so for fear of being summarily dismissed, as was Gen. MacArthur.

The basic principle involved here is the forthrightness and independence of the military. It must always be obedient to a civilian decision, but in furnishing military advice it must not adulterate its thinking on military questions to suit the political purposes of the administration or to appease allies who transmit their views to our State Department.

Refusal of the Joint Chiefs, for example, to support on paper confidentially or before Congress subsequently their December 1951 view that bases in Manchuria should be bombarded and a naval embargo placed on strategic materials destined directly or indirectly for Red China is a sad example of how the military forfeited its independence of judgment under the last administration.

The philosophy of the new personnel on the Joint Chiefs of Staff is different. It was expressed by Gen. Ridgway, chief of staff of the Army, when he took his oath of office last week.

He pledged himself to preserve the democratic institutions of America and to "maintain the integrity of the military profession."

Gen. Ridgway said this means presenting "honest, objective, professional views up to the point of decision by civilian authority, and then completely loyal execution of that decision."

No better creed could be proclaimed for the entire group of new service chiefs.

The function of Adm. Radford, as chairman of the Joint Chiefs, should not be to make public speeches, however great the temptation to uphold his boss in the political arena.

It should be to furnish the best military advice possible and—when called upon—to tell Congress frankly what that advice was so that the legislative branch of the government may in due time pass judgment on the efficiency and effectiveness of the military service rendered by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

On the Decline of Tomcats

By TRUMAN TWILL

Whenever a topic was needed in the old days, this column would fall back on the tomcat. That is an old trick of columnists.

The trouble was that our tomcats are perishable. They come and go. Finally there were no more tomcats at our house that could do the job.

Not only were they unable to write columns but they couldn't even think up ideas on which columns could be written. The tomcat being supported at our house at present—the one that bears the improbable name of "Baby Kitten"—is worthless as far as literary production is concerned.

But there is this to be said about him and other tomcats in the country: they are not regarded as parasites. Your true countryman, the kind that must get by on his agricultural income, regards all cats as necessities.

Two years ago some form of galloping cat fever wiped out all the cats with merely ordinary resistance in our neighborhood. All the farm families went looking for cats to restock their big barns.

The idea is to give the cats just enough milk to drink to keep them healthy but nothing else. Their voracious appetites then drive them to hunt for the innumerable mice and rats that infest barns

The cats earn their keep by this relentless hunting. It is like the game between the human hunters and the pheasants, which always disappear when hunting season starts.

The presence of cats drives the rats to cover. It puts them on the defensive. And if the cats knows their business, they gradually put the rodents out of business. One good hunter at our house found, killed and laid out for inspection 14 half-grown rats which she had destroyed in one night.

It is widely believed and may be true that females make the best hunters, but tomcats are adequate hunters too. "Baby Kitten," worthless as he appears to be, frequently brings in a squirming breakfast to be eaten at leisure in his favorite place by the side door.

If he could read and write we'd let him take a crack at this on days when things get jammed up. People are morbidly curious to know what cats are thinking about human beings, probably because cats keep people on the defensive with their smirking and blinking.

Actually, the cats cannot help doing this and do not mean to be insulting. They are not being supercilious or hypercritical—just catty. That would be the great surprise if all animals could read and write, to learn that cats are interested only in other cats. It would let a lot of air out of the human ego.

"Whither thou goest I will go, and where thou lodgest I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God." —Ruth 1:16. No lovelier thing was ever said by mortal woman. Ruth's love for her mother-in-law stands as a noble example, and evidence that her mother-in-law was also a splendid person.

Religious Boom Seen

MANILA (AP)— Dr. E. Stanley Jones, a Methodist missionary and author of several books on social science, says present world conditions have brought peoples all over the world closer to religion. He observed that "the peoples have felt the need for something to live by because the world they live in is so shaky." This situation, he said, is specially true in Japan where the old philosophies of life "are going to pieces and giving way to modern ways of living."

How To Keep Teen-Agers in School

Within the next few weeks, more than 3,000,000 teen-agers will decide whether to return to school or to keep working on their summer jobs. Because their choice of school, instead of work, or a combination of training and employment, will affect not only their own earning capacity, but also the national need for technicians and professionals, Secretary of Labor Martin P. Durkin is asking parents and teen-agers to talk it over thoroughly before deciding that John or Mary should drop out of school.

Last year a third of America's 16-and 17-year-olds, 20 per cent more than in 1951, failed to return to school after taking summer jobs. From 1944 until last fall, there had been a steady decline in the number of boys and girls who stayed out of school for work.

Educators say that most school dropouts have no occupational goal—their interest is in getting on any pay roll—with its promise of financial independence and the coveted status of an adult. Does it pay off?

Businessmen, employers, labor leaders, parents and teachers are being marshaled by the Department of Labor's Advisory Committee on Young workers to persuade ten-agers and their parents that education is a good investment—for the student, for his family and for the nation.

The drive has two goals. First, to encourage teen-agers to get as much education as possible—at least to complete high school. Secondly, it stresses good working conditions for youngsters employed either part or full time.

To family councils debating the question, Secretary Durkin offers the findings of the 1950 census which shows that male high-school graduates make almost as much between the ages of 25 and 39 as those who completed the eighth grade make between 45 and 54—the peak of their earning power. Girl graduates make more by the time they are 21 than the eighth grader can ever hope to make.

The cash value of finishing just the last year of high school over a 40-year span amounts to $14,700 for men and nearly $20,000 for women, on the basis of the Census Bureau's findings.

The National Association of Manufacturers, through its board of directors, has resolved that "Business enterprise must find a way to support the whole educational program — effectively, regularly and now." The NAM wants not only more and better schools, but more boys and more girls in those schools.

Education boosts markets for goods and services, according to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, which found the 31 states leading in per capita retail sales and the number of telephones in use also lead in educational levels.

Louis Hollander, president of the New York State CIO, cites a survey of 487 high-school principals indicating that the lure of a job, the attitude of parents, and dissatisfaction with courses offered by schools are the real reasons why teen-agers are deserting classrooms.

"A drop-out is seldom found among those who like school and who are accepted or participating members in an active program," says Hollandler.

The CIO leader suggests labor-management committees work with school officials to coordinate work-and-earn projects to provide a more meaningful training experience. Last year 3,800 New York City high-school students earned $2,284,292 through cooperative school-job programs.

But high school dropouts are only one reason why official Washington is becoming increasingly concerned about teen-agers.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey points out that the armed forces rejected 19 per cent of all registrants examined during the first year of the Korean War because they could not pass the armed forces qualification test—largely a literacy test.

Modern war is machine war—it must have technicians. The armed forces want youngsters to come to recruiting offices with high-school diplomas. Selective Service defers high-school students until graduation.

Against the overwhelming manpower odds held by the iron-curtain countries, American leadership depends more and more on the decisions to be made by its teen-agers.

Though federal and state laws limit child labor and require school attendance, enforcement staffs are small and attendance officers take their cue from community attitudes. After a century of free public schools, Columbia University's Committee on the Nation's Human Resources last year reported that the country still has 2,500,000 illiterates. Federal officials believe that the only effective answer is through family and community action.

What can you as a parent, an employer, a teacher, or an alert citizen do?

From the Department of Labor come these suggestions:

Encourage teen-agers to complete high school. Insist on proper work permits and observe federal and state child-labor laws.

Employ teen-agers no more than eight hours a day, 40 hours a week. Employ students no more than three hours on school days.

Provide safe, healthful places to work. Treat teen-agers with respect and understanding—give them good supervision, training—and a chance to develop on the job.

Don't deny boys at or near draft age full opportunity for employment and on-the job training before they go into service. Report violations of child-labor and school-attendance laws to state, federal or school officials.

Sense for Our Senses

No doubt Dr. Raymond M. Hainer and associated scientists of the Arthur D. Little Co., Cambridge, Mass., have made a distinct contribution to human knowledge in deciding that the human nose is equipped to distinguish some 16 million different odors.

Their scientific colleagues in various fields are doing their best to develop new smells to meet this olefactory competence, although of course there can always be found a variety sufficient for most citizens.

Dr. Hainer figures things out thus: In each nostril, in an area about a quarter-inch across, are 1,900 nerve centers which he calls "glomeruli." From each of these, 24 nerve fibers run to the brain—no doubt running fast when they report on a pleasant smell like food at mealtime, lagging reluctantly when informing of the proximity of an aroused skunk.

It seems each odor excites certain of these nerve fibers and none others, which is just and right. A different odor presses buttons, so to speak, in other nerve fibers among the 1,900 glomeruli. A person up on his smelling toes, with his nasal switchboards working fine, thus is expected to learn from his brain just what is in his neighborhood so he can go closer or edge away.

All this is splendidly scientific and surely a big help to the world's people long troubled about strange goings-on when the wind is just right, or wrong. It is dazing, of course, to be informed there are 16 million smell potentialities in a nose, and that, good and bad, we haven't smelled anything yet.

There ought to be some way to disconnect a few nerve fiber wires so we could whiff only fragrant things, and the electronics people may figure that out some day. Nothing has been said about things that just figuratively smell bad, such as some movie plots and bum jokes, and it seems unfair to blame the old probescis for these.

Women seem to have more than 1,900 glomeruli, and can detect aromas on a man's breath with disconcerting accuracy long after he has had a pick-me-up tonic. This likewise seems unfair. In fact, scientists ought to kick the whole idea around before letting us do it this way. Sixteen odors and all of them nice, rather than 16 million, would be ample in hot weather.

Marion County History Brevities

By EDNA S. DUTTON

Commissioners appointed by the legislature visited a number of spots before deciding to make Marion the county seat. The interested citizens in each locality vied with each other in entertaining the commissioners. When the "stake was struck" in Marion there was a grand impromptu celebration. With no artillery at hand a substitute was improvised by boring holes in several large oak trees and filling them with charges of powder. Some of the trees were shattered into fragments.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Another Trouble Spot

On the eve of the momentous United Nations session on a peaceful settlement in Korea, U.N. nearly got into a war with the City of New York. It just goes to show what a screwy age we are passing through.

Hostilities broke out between the U.N. secretary general, Dag Hammerskjold and Gotham's free-swinging park commissioner, Bob Moses, over traffic congestion caused by the parking of U.N. cars. But it was realized that peace had better come fast, since Bob Moses not only has the H-bomb but is the H-bomb.

Truce tents were quickly set up on the East River before it became necessary to issue casualty lists in a parking dispute. It was a close call from bloody conflict.

Few streets in New York have had more cars parked bumper to bumper than those around U.N. headquarters. Moses demanded that something be done. The city had spent $23,000,000 on approaches to the Temple of Peace with the understanding the U.N. would provide and use underground parking facilities.

Mr. Hammarskjold, being a new arrival in this country and having never bumped into Moses, and despite considerable experience in lesser wars, defended the street parking of U.N. cars.

It looked like another global war when somebody briefed him on Moses as an enemy in any battle, and he withdrew behind a sort of Manhattan 38th Parallel and sent up the peace dove at once. The world breathes easier.

The fact is, however, that with the world in such a frightful shape, with fighting men dying the hard way and with tremendous suffering going on everywhere, the picture of diplomats going to and from the U.N. in eight-cylinder seven-passenger limousines is not so helpful that the opulence should be advertised by all-day parking.

It makes the mood a little too luxurious and carefree for an organization dedicated to the tough job of global rescue for the under-privileged, the undernourished and the underprotected.

It is impossible to fret about the underdog when you are in a deluxe car driven by a liveried chauffeur.

The atmosphere around the Temple of Peace should be one of reasonable humility and obvious concentration on a keen concern for millions of human beings threatened with death from the skies.

With a vast fortune in motor cars stacked all around the place, the mood is more like that of a society wedding, an international polo match or a new night club opening. What goes? The greatest Man of Peace in the history of the world went on foot or donkey.

No matter how the war between Mr. Moses and the U.N. comes out, we would like to see the U.N. pass a rule forbidding any delegate or any worker showing up in anything better than a jalopy with two door handles missing and the upholstery in rags.

Either that or in a city bus, and always subscribing to a statement, "I may not have the brains to bring world peace but I am too smart to make New York sore at me."

Vishinsky has arrived to take part in the discussion of a settlement in Korea and is all set to help world peace if it takes his last insult.

The Marion Real Estate Board held its regular meeting Monday noon at Hotel Marion. The meeting was presided over by Lowell Douce.

EX-RACKETEER CHARGED

CLEVELAND (AP)—The government has filed a $42,658 tax lien against Dement Dawson, described by Cleveland police as a former numbers racketeer. The internal revenue bureau claims Dawson was shy on income tax payments for 1948, 1949 and 1950.

Pastor's Second Card Arrives Here on Time

The Postoffice Department set no records delivering a card this week to Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gherman of 680 Silver St. But it bettered its previous time for delivering mail from the Rev. and Mrs. James W. Fisher of Cameron, W. Va.

Last month, Mr. and Mrs. Gherman received a card from the Fishers which had been mailed 20 years and 11 months earlier while the couple were vacationing in Baltimore, Md. The last card was mailed from New York City where the Fishers are spending a vacation this year.

The card informed the Ghermans the Fishers would return to their home early next month. They said they hoped the card would be delivered quicker than the other one.

Mrs. Gherman said Rev. and Mrs. Fisher had apparently heard of the late delivery through a friend or from reading The Star since she had not informed them.

The Rev. Fisher was pastor at the Lee Street Presbyterian Church in the late 1920's and early 1930s.

Slain Boy's Father And Mother Arrested

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP)—Sheriff Dudley Crider today disclosed the arrest of Gail Rhodeback, 32-year-old father of Byron Rhodeback, 5, slain by a "homicidal attack."

The boy's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Rhodeback, 27, was accused of second-degree murder yesterday.

The father, said Crider, is held without charge.

The 317-pound mother, who once served time in Marysville Reformatory for mistreating her children, may be arraigned today. She is accused of "unlawfully and maliciously" killing young Byron Aug. 7. She contends he died of injuries received from a maddened heifer.

$400 Fire Thought Caused by Youths

A fire blamed on youths playing with matches or smoking caused some $400 damage to a garage at the residence of Donald Cooper at 137 Chicago Ave. Monday.

Firemen from the Central Station were called to the blaze at 2:34 p.m. Heat from the fire at Cooper's garage also caused an estimated $50 to $75 to new paint on an adjacent garage owned by Mahlon A. Buller of 141 Chicago Ave.

Fire Chief Owen A. Sifritt said the blaze in Cooper's garage apparently was set accidentally by young boys, probably smoking in the garage.

A fire scare at 11 a.m. this morning sent Central Station firemen to the residence of V. W. Power at 543½ S. Prospect St. The scare came when at attempt was made to light a defective burner on a gas stove and flames shot out, Chief Sifritt said. An unidentified neighbor turned off the main gas valve before firemen arrived and there was no damage, Sifritt said.

Crocheting Contest Planned At Marion Fair; Men Eligible

For the first time in the history of the Marion County Fair, persons may enter a national crocheting contest. The event is not restricted to women. Men may also enter ih their own special class.

There are 16 classifications in which a person may compete. These include almost every kind of crocheting article possible. According to Mrs. A. B. Augenstein, who is in charge of the affair, if a person has an article which is not in one of the specified classes, a special place will be assigned to that article.

Besides the regular contest for ladies an dthe special contest for men, there is also a separate branch for teenagers and one for women over 65.

The only definite rules governing the contest are that the article must be crocheted from mercerized thread and placed in its location at the fair by 6 p.m. Saturday and remain there until 6 p.m. Thursday, the closing day of the fair.

Articles will be judged as they are brought in for exhibition. The maker of the best article will receive a gold cup. In additon, the makers of the best articles in each of the 16 divisions will be eligible to enter the national finals to be held in New York next winter.

Winner of the national finals will be given a $500 prize ,and free trip to New York. Th same prize will also be given to the winners in the men's section and teenagers classification in the National finals.

Anyone desiring further information may obtain a leaflet with full details at Kline's Department Store, 190 W. Center St. or by calling Mrs. Augenstein at 3-8938.

To women who have spent a small fortune on cosmetics without finding beauty
Change just one beauty habit and you may change your whole beauty life

You who have been abusing your skin without knowing it, owe it to yourselves to read about the "Acid Mantle" which is all-important to your skin.
It's a tragic mistake—and thousands of women make it every day. They spend a lot of money on expensive face creams but feel that any old cleansing method will do. Well, it won't do! Improper cleansing disturbs the delicate balance of your skin, making it impossible for expensive cosmetics to live up to their promises. Proper cleansing (cleansing that protects the normal alkaline-acid balance of the skin) is the very beginning of beauty!
Strangely, "Acid" is a good word for the skin.
Although most of us associate the word "acid" with unpleasant things such as "acid indigestion", your doctor will tell you that a normal, healthy skin is definitely on the acid side. For a normal skin has an invisible film, called an "Acid Mantle", that protects its natural beauty. Now, all soaps and most cleansing creams are alkaline in their action and, therefore, set up disturbing reactions on the skin's acid surface.
'White Sable' is on the "acid side"!
Fortunately, now there is a liquid cleansing-creme that works with your skin's "Acid Mantle" instead of against it. Called "White Sable", it was formulated by Revlon chemists and it matches exactly the chemical content of normal, healthy skin. Fragrant, luxurious 'White Sable' helps "normalize" your skin as it cleanses because it is completely compatible with your skin's protective "Acid Mantle".
But more than the beauty of naturally healthy skin, Revlon's 'White Sable' gives you the cleanest skin going . . . leaves it fresh as rain, soft as sable . . . it floats dirt and make-up to the surface and slides them off as only a liquid can.
If you value your complexion, you can't afford to be without this unique, protective liquid cleansing-creme another day.
'White Sable' in large, unbreakable, peach-plastic bottle is only 1.50*
Special Note to Women With Aging Skin!
For skin with tell-tale signs of age, Revlon offers 'White Sable' Liquid Cleansing-Creme with Hormones, only 2.25*

35,000 Legion Members Set For Convention

St. Louis To Become Carnival City For Four-Day Conference

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UP)—St. Louis will become a carnival city for four days when 35,000 American Legionnaires and their wives arrive Aug. 31 for their 35th national convention in the city of the organization's birth.

But while there will be the usual merriment and parading, for which Legion conventions are famed, local Legion officials predict emphasis will be put on "serious matters" in view of troubled world conditions.

National Commander Lewis K. Gough announced that Vice President Richard Nixon will be the principal speaker at the opening session, Aug. 31.

Other headliners who will appear during the convention include Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, Navy Secretary Robert B. Anderson, the secretaries of the CIO and AFL, and the president of the National Association of Manufacturers.

On the lighter side, local Legion officials have planned a giant, day-long parade—for Sept. 1—the biggest in the city's history—involving 100,000 marchers and hundreds of drum and bugle corps. It is estimated that it will take 10 hours to pass a given point.

National competitions for prizes totaling $10,200 will be held Aug. 30 and 31 for bands, drum and bugle corps, choruses, firing squads and color guards.

Housing A Problem

The Forty and Eight, the Legion's fun-making organization, will unofficially kick off the convention on Aug. 30 with a parade of its traditional box cars and engines from each state. Members of the organization, dressed in smocks and chapeaux, and musical units will also participate.

To police the Legion's activities, 400 St. Louis policemen, all members of the Legion, will be on hand around the clock.

Housing the thousands of conventioneers posed a big problem for local Legion officials. With all public housing facilities within a 26-mile radius of the city providing accommodatoins for 22,000, 10,000 rooms in private homes were still needed.

But David Fleischer, executive vice president of the local convention headquarters, citing the response of St. Louis residents during the last Legion convention here in 1935, said he could assure any Legionnaire planning to attend that accommodations will be available.

In addition to the Legion itself, the Forty and Eight and auxiliaries of both organizations will convene here simultaneously.

Business sessions of the Legion and its auxiliary will be held at St. Louis' Kiel Auditorium.

guess" is that an additional 5 to 10 billion dollars can be pared from the $78,600,000,000 budget which former President Truman proposed for the fiscal year which started July 1. The administration says a 13 billion dollar reduction already has been made.

Adams talked of further savings through "internal reductions" in "curent departmental expenses," but he did not elaborate.

3. Eisenhower is bearing up "amazingly well" both temperamentally and physically—under the heavy burdens of the presidency.

THE NEW TEAM. The top military team of the nation poses at the Pentagon between swearing in ceremonies that placed two more of them in office. Gen. Strike Tension Mounts; French Ignore Threat

PARIS (AP)—Defiant union leaders today ignored Premier Joseph Laniel's threat of tougher action to end France's crippling strikes and continued their nationwide walkout.

As tension mounted, the government moved about 500 parachute troops into Paris to cope with possible violence.

In a surprise broadcast to the nation last night, Laniel made an impassioned plea to the workers to go back to their jobs. A critical paralysis of nationally operated industries and public services went into its second week.

The premier told union leaders he would negotiate with them no more unless there was a return to work today, and implied tougher action—possibly use of the Army—to break the strikes.

The threat brought quick defiance from some union organizations, and as the morning wore on there was no move to return to work.

Although three companies of parachute troopers were brought into the city to bolster the capital's police, a government source denied reports that tanks had been rushed into the city. He pointed out that there are always tanks in the Paris area, where a number of Army barracks are located.

Authoritative sources, meanwhile, said France's National Assembly almost certainly will be called back from its summer holiday for emergency sessions to deal with the strike situation and other grave problems facing the country.

The assembly steering committee is to meet Friday, and all indications were that it would reconvene the Assembly, which normally doesn't start sessions until mid-October.

Toscanini Doesn't Sit, Musicians Don't Slump

NEW ALBANY, Miss. (UP) — Members of the high school band here recently got into a heated dispute about: (1) whether musicians must sit erect at all times; (2) whether Arturo Toscanini sits during rehearsals.

John White, who was reprimanded for slumping in his chair, took pen in hand and wrote Toscanini. He received a letter from the conductor's son, Walter, which said in part:

"In reply to your question, my father never sits during a rehearsal. Some conductors do but he has never been in the habit of it and it is just impossible for him . . .As for the men in the orchestra, it would be impossible for them to play well if they did not sit erect."

one repatriate, Mu Ki Na, who "was caught by camp guards drawing the Korean Communist flag on a wall."

"He was stripped by the Americans of all his clothes," Peiping said, "and thrown into a pit surrounded by a barbed wire fence. . . The Americans then let in two bloodhounds to attack Mu. Mu screamed in death agony as piece after piece of his flesh was bitten off by the ferocious animals. He died a virtual bleeding skeleton and the pit was soaked with his blood."

Peiping Tuesday night quoted returned Communist prisoners as saying at least 200 to 300 Chinese "were secretly withheld by the American side."

Army Denies Report

In Washington the Army denied published reports that the U. N. Command had repatriated the last of the Chinese willing to return home. It said that some Chinese still remain to be exchanged, but gave no figure.

Army Secretary Stevens said last week the U. N. Command was withholding about 205 Chinese from repatriation until the Reds gave assurances they would release all Allied prisoners.

nists and (B) a woman witness declared she once saw Rothschild take a secret paper from the plant.

Woman Will Be Called

The senator indicated this woman will be called as a witness before his committee later in the week.

Rothschild has denied before the loyalty board that he ever was a Communist.

One of his co-workers, James B. Phillips, testified yesterday he knew Rothschild to be a Communist party member in 1938 and 1939. Phillips said Rothschild and Frederick Sillers Jr. tried to recruit him into a Communist cell at the printing office.

Sillers, formerly foreman of the plant's metals section, took the stand later and refused, on the ground it might tend to incriminate him, to say whether he ever was a Communist or whether he knew Rothschild or Phillips.

Once Worked in Ohio

A tense, graying man who said he now is a free lance artist in Rolla, Mo., Sillers testified he worked as a metallurgist for Titanium Alloy Manufacturing Co., Niagara Falls, N. Y., and for Republic Steel at Youngstown, Ohio, before going to work for the Government Printing Office in 1939.

McCarthy said also in the public hearing that a proofreader named Irving Kornfield still is employed at the printing office despite information furnished to the loyalty board by government investigative agencies that he held a Communist party card.

One of yesterday's witnesses, Mrs. Mary Markward, a former undercover agent for the FBI, said a former printing office employe, Irving Studenberg, was known to her as a Communist. The fifth present or former printing office worker alleged to have been a Communist was Bertha Lomax. She was fired after an adverse finding by the loyalty board and, Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) said, after she was caught leaving the plant with a secret document in her possession.

tions, including that of Indochina, could be discussed, he said.

The vote on the two countries was taken separately. The proposal to invite Communist China was 14 in favor, 34 against and nine abstaining. The vote against inviting North Korea was 18-34 with seven abstaining.

Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky warned before the decision, "No solution is possible in their absence."

Wants Broad Membership

He also disclosed that the Soviet Union wants the forthcoming Korean peace conference to include a broader membership than the actual countries who participated in the fighting, as the United States has been demanding.

Vishinsky also served notice that he would make a formal proposal at the regular fall session of the General Assembly for the seating of Red China as a member of the U. N.

"The seat of China can and must be occupied by the representative of the central government of the People's Republic of China," Vishinsky said.

His resolution this morning was confined to a proposal to invite the Chinese Reds and the North Koreans to take part in the present debate.

Oppose Soviet Move

Lodge immediately opposed the Soviet move. He said there is no reason for the participation of the Peiping regime or the North Koreans in the selection of the U. N. representatives to the peace conference. The armistice agreement makes it clear, he said, that the two sides were to choose their own representatives.

Sir Percy Spender, Australian delegate, backed up Lodge in opposing the Soviet move.

The main debate on the Korean peace conference was delayed temporarily by Vishinsky's proposal.

State Hospital AttendantFired For 'Torture'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A woman attendant at the Cambridge State Hospital accused of "twisting the wrists of aged, infirm, bed-ridden patients until they screamed with pain" has been discharged.

Dr. Arthur T. Hopwood, hospital superintendent, notified the state civil service commission he was discharging Mrs. Elsie Garen effective Aug. 20.

The attendant now is under suspension.

The notification said reason for the discharge was "unsatisfactory performance, disloyalty, mistreatment of patients and slanderous remarks about her fellow workers."

A state Senate inquiry on conditions at the hospital was conducted several months ago. At about the same time state welfare director John H. Lamneck also made an investigation.

Dr. Hopwood's notice to the commission and Mrs. Garen said the attendant was "deliberately disloyal to the hospital," and that "you testified under oath you had witnessed the mistreatment of patients and failed to report such incidents."

"On several occasions," the notification to Mrs. Garen said, "you yourself mistreated patients. You have also disturbed mentally ill patients by criticising their religious faith."

Dr. Hopwood said Mrs. Garen told him she did not wish to file an explanation to the charges against her.

Turkey Fights Crime With Stiff Penalties

Criminal Code Is Revised; Old Laws Called Inadequate

ISTANBUL (UP)—The National Assembly, alarmed by the increase in crimes of violence in Turkey, has stiffened penalties.

The legislators acted with an eye to the future needs of the penal code, but rejected a proposal to rewrite the whole code on the grounds that the need for change was urgent. Such a project would involve considerable research and would consume much time, it was pointed out.

The portions of the law changed deal with crimes against the public security, sexual offenses, and assault. In a preamble to the revised laws, the parliamentary bill said that penalties applied under the old criminal law were insufficient for most crimes. In addition, the weak laws were often imposed with a broad tolerance for the guilty parties.

Blood Feuds

The most significant aspect of the new laws is the inclusion of blood feuds in the types of murder punishable by death. In Turkey, as in many Mediterranean and Middle Eastern countries, a strong feeling exists in rural areas that a family must avenge the murder of a member. In some instances, these "blood feuds" have continued for hundreds of years.

By including the vendetta in the list of crimes punishable by death, the legislators indicated their desire to wipe out the last vestiges of feudalism in the remote and more backward areas of this republic.

Altogether, 10 categories of murder are punishable by death, including murder of next of kin, in-laws, newlyweds, government officials, members of the National Assembly, and more than one person. If the murder is accomplished by fire or inundation, or to facilitate or cover up another dirty deed, or if it is committed ferociously, the same penalty applies. The old sentence for such crimes was 22 to 24 years.

Adultery

Intentional manslaughter of other varieties would result in 30 years at hard labor.

Jail sentences for sexual offenses also have been increased. The term for raping children under 15 was increased from three to five years, and if the victim is over 15, the penalty is not less than seven years. Illegal intercourse now brings from six months to three years. Indecent exposure, illegal marriage, white slavery, adultery and other crimes of passion were similarly boosted in penalties.

The question of adultery brought about considerable debate concerning equal punishment for male and female adulterers. The minority faction proposed that since the Turkish civil laws treats men and women as equals, their punishment for such crimes should be equal. The majority held, however, that there is a natural difference between men and women, and that social reaction in adultery cases is almost universally directed against females, but not against males.

the Soviets are holding on the ground that they belonged to the German Nazi regime of Adolf Hitler.

The notes delivered to the Foreign Office in Moscow yesterday and made public last night suggested that diplomats appointed by the Western Powers and Russia meet in London to assume talks on the long treaty.

Reply to Russian Note

They were in reply to a Russian note of July 30 asking that the Western nations drop the short form treaty, which Russia has contended is a violation of the Big Four agreement made at Potsdam in 1945.

In another note on Aug. 4, the Soviets had said that "it goes without saying that a possible successful solution of the German problem could also help a solution of the Austrian question."

In reply, yesterday's U. S. note said it was assumed this did not mean that hope for an Austrian treaty would be deferred "until other unrelated conditions are met."

If the Russians should insist on a German settlement first, indications were that completion of an Austrian treaty would be long delayed.

Mossadegh's Hunt for Shah's Men Continues

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's triumphant government continued a roundup today of suspects in Sunday's attempted coup.

From a hill hideout the fugitive Shah's appointee as premier, Maj. Gen. Fazollah Zahedi, defiantly called on Army officers to lay down their lives for the monarchy. His declaration was handed newsmen in Tehran by a courier.

Unofficial reports said police and pro-Mossadegh troops had arrested 30 alleged ringleaders of the palace attempt to oust the aged Premier. Foreign Minister Hussein Fatemi admitted 14 were Army leaders.

Mossadegh's government appeared firmly in power after the abortive coup launched after Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi signed a decree to depose the Premier.

The monarch named Zahedi to the post but pro-Mossadegh forces routed a display of force by the imperial guard. The 34-year-old Shah fled with his wife, Empress Soraya, by plane to neighboring Iraq.

The government ordered a special frontier watch to prevent Zahedi from slipping across to join the Shah in Baghdad. There was speculation the monarch may plan to set up a government in exile.

On July 27, British Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd told Parliament negotiations for Sanders' release again were under way between the British charge d'affaires in Budapest and Hungarian officials.

The Hungarian announcement of Sanders' pardon implied the action was based on a clemency petition submitted to President Istvan Dobi earlier this month by the Briton's wife Winifred. She gave her letter of appeal to Hungary's ambassador in London, Imre Horvath, just before his return to Budapest Aug. 11.

These Days

By George Sokolsky

As one goes over the material on Korea, it is shocking to read all the promises that have been made, particularly about unification! As early as December 1948, the United Nations promised "complete independence and unity of Korea."

SOKOLSKY

The United States assented to this promise. Yet, the truce separates Korea, between North and South, and if not precisely on the 38th parallel, close enough to arouse suspicion that the war actually served no purpose.

-:-

IN JUNE 1950, when the North Koreans attacked the South Koreans, the United Nations Security Council pledged "complete independence and unity" for Korea.

Warren Austin, our representative in the United Nations, waxed eloquent that Korea should not be permitted to remain "half slave, half free." The General Assembly of the United Nations had voted that Korea be unified under a freely elected government.

Trygve Lie, then secretary general of the United Nations, said in a speech that it would not be enough to drive the Koran Communists beyond the 38th parallel; the country must be "unified and independent" and that the Koreans must be "able freely to select a government of their own choosing."

THIS GENERAL type of promise continued throughout the war in Korea — except for Harry Truman who from the beginning set the 38th parallel as the limit of intervention.

In many respects, Truman's public statements were more honest than most because he did not take a position that unification would be achieved by force.

Despite the various statements about unification, as early as October 12, 1950, Syngman Rhee was precluded from governing North Korea, even the conquered territory. A resolution to that effect was introduced by Australia and was approved.

After the Wake Island conference between President Truman and Gen. MacArthur, Rhee's position was considerably weakened. Yet a United Nations Commission on Unification and Rehabilitation had been appointed. What kind of unification was not made clear.

ONE OF the most amazing documents in this series is a joint statement issued by President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee in which it is said:

"There can be no thought of appeasement or of rewarding aggression, whether in the Far East or elsewhere" but "we are ready to seek an end to hostilities by means of negotiation . . . on the basis of a free and independent Korea."

Yet, aggression is regarded in the sense that the Chinese Communists, who are the effective aggressors in this war, are actually being supported by Great Britain, France, Canada and other countries in their demand for a seat in the United Nations. Should they get their seat, would it not be evidence that crime does pay?

PRESIDENT Truman, in his reply to the Russian peace proposal (June 1951), said:

"We are ready to join in a peaceful settlement in Korea now just as we have always been. But it must be a real settlement which fully ends the aggression and restores peace and security" to Korea.

It will here be noted that nothing is said in this statement about unification.

The Russian peace proposal was made after 1950, when the United States troops were at the Yalu River with all of Korea under their control.

The victory had been won by Gen. MacArthur against the North Koreans, but on November 6, 1950, the Chinese Communists intervened and started a new war.

After the Chinese intervention, talk about unification was not so general. For instance, in June 1951, Dean Acheson said that the war was being fought to end aggression and to restore peace.

ACHESON'S attitude, like Trumans, was that if the status quo ante bellum could be restored, it would be enough.

However, President Eisenhower did not take that position. He said in June 1953, that the United States was committed to the principle of the unification of Kore.

Actually, it would seem that too many promises have been made, most of which are not yet known to the American people.

What are our commitments to Great Britain or to India?

How far have we gone in our negotiations with the North Koreans who represented the Chinese Communists?

What have we promised Syngman Rhee in return for his consent to be a good boy for 90 days?

These questions have not been answered.

The Far Eastern sub-committee of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate may know the answers, but they regard them as confidential. Yet, the people do not know and it is their business.

NEW UNIFORM. This new U. S. Army uniform is now optional for enlisted men. It is the same as officers' dress blues, but carries the enlisted man's insignia. Sgt. 1/c Neil Southern, Chillicothe, O., models it in Washington.

Inside Labor

By J. Edgar Hoover

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, is substituting as guest columnist today for Victor Riesel who is enroute from Europe.

In recent years a number of misconceptions concerning the responsibilities and investigative functions of the Federal Bureau of Investigation have been accorded wide circulation. For example, such erroneous terms as "FBI clearance" have come into usage; indignation has been voiced at the FBI's "failure to prosecute" alleged violators of the law; and numerous unsubstantiated rumors concerning investigative techniques employed by the FBI have been circulated.

RIESEL

An analysis of these misconceptions shows that they spring, for the most part, from a misunderstanding of the FBI's responsibilities and policies.

As the investigative arm of the United States Department of Justice, the FBI is strictly a fact-finding, fact-reporting agency.

ITS JURISDICTION encompasses both domestic intelligence and general investiative matters; however, the FBI's authority is carefully defined and limited by federal law.

As a fact-finding agency, the FBI confines its investigative activity to thoroughly and impartially seeking the truth.

Contrary to the opinion of many, it does not — by either deed or implication — assume the role of accuser, juror, prosecutor or judge in pursuing its official responsibilities.

The FBI finds the facts and reports them to the appropriate federal officials. Under no circumstances does it attempt to interpret for such officials the results of its investigations.

The FBI does not draw conclusions; it does not recommend prosecutive action; nor does it opinionate its reports.

WITHIN the area covered by the much-discussed "Loyalty Program," the FBI each year conducts thousands of investigations of employes, appointees and applicants of agencies within the Executive Branch of the federal government.

In these loyalty-type investigations, the FBI's objective and its techniques are the same as in any other type of investigative matter. It seeks the facts in a thorough, impartial manner, and it expeditiously reports the facts to the appropriate federal agency.

The FBI makes no recommendations concerning the hiring or firing of any individual. It does not issue "clearances."

Despite these truths, the term "FBI clearance" has frequently been used as a scapegoat for explaining delays encountered by persons seeking appointments to federal positions.

WHENEVER the FBI hears of such instances, it immediately looks for the source of the delay.

Time after time one of two answers has been found. Either the FBI has received no request to investigate the individual, or the FBI has completed its investigation and sent its reports to the appropriate agency where they have received less expeditious attention.

All matters referred to the FBI are handled as promptly and expeditiously as possible. The FBI does not tolerate unnecessary delays by its employes; yet, it will not sacrifice thoroughness and accuracy for the sake of rapidly completing its investigations.

Another area of widespread misunderstanding lies in the jurisdictional limitations of the FBI.

Occasionally the victim of a crime is heard to complain, "The FBI has refused to do anything about my case." Without exception, such statements are basically untrue.

-:-

SINCE the jurisdiction of the FBI is restricted to some 130 federal investigative matters, the FBI may not, under any circumstances, conduct investigations of alleged violations of municipal, county or state laws.

Whenever the FBI receives information alleging violations of such laws, the information or the complainant is promptly referred to the appropriate law enforcement agency.

The FBI does not "refuse" to take action; it merely acts in accordance with its jurisdiction.

Although the FBI is an entirely separate entity from other law enforcement agencies, it does render to local county and state police all coopertaion which is consistent with its jurisdiction.

For example, the FBI assists, upon request, in training programs of police departments.

It conducts cost-free examinations of evidence for local police, and it issues publication which help appraise the law enforcement profession of trends in crime as well as new developments in enforcement and detection.

THE FBI does not, however, usurp the authority of other law enforcement agencies. It respects the sovereignty of local law enforcement and has been outspoken in opposing all measures pointing toward the possible establishment of a national police.

As an organization which defends civil rights, the FBI views centralization of police powers with a skepticism taken from the pages of history.

In the light of the foregoing facts, it is readily seen that the FBI does not "refuse" to investigate violations of the law, that it does not defer investigations or issue "clearances," and that the FBI is a fact-finding investigative agency which never adopts the role of ccuser, juror, prosecutor or judge.

Yet, from time to time, misunderstandings concerning matters such as these have threatened to besmirch the reputation of the FBI in the minds of some American citizens.

Star Deflater

By Inez Robb

Things are tough all over, but there is panic in Hollywood. Word is being passed along, for the first time in Hollywood history, that it will be absolutely, positively imperative for a pretty girl to be able to act if she aspires to be a mo'om picture star.

INEZ ROBB

I am indebted to Henry Koster for word of this revolutionary trend. Mr. Koster, one of the industry's foremost directors, came by the other day to describe the new problems involved in making pictures for the wide screen and dropped a bombshell.

"Actors will have to be able to act from now on," he prophesied. "A pretty face won't be enough. It will take more than a good profile and a sensational bustline to succeed.

"On the ordinary-sized screen, you can pull the no-talent kids through with technical tricks. But the big screen is pitiless, merciless. In the past, I have directed pretty girls who knew less about acting than I do about tight-wire walking. For them, the wide screen is murder."

MR. KOSTER, a serious gentleman, has just completed production of "The Robe" for Twentieth Century-Fox, its first full-length, wide-screen offering. As a result of this experience, he feels that many now-famous Hollywood performers are not long for this rugged, wide-screen world.

"It (the wide screen) is going to cause as profound an upheaval as the advent of sound," Mr. Koster said. "A poor actor cannot survive. Many will fall by the wayside. Only the best will remain. Stage experience is essential in this new medium."

The cutie who can't remember her lines will no longer have the consolation of a blackboard from which to read them, the director said. With the wide screen, the blackboard is kaput. Movie actors will have to be able to remember and to play a sustained scene, as do round actors. The old five-second "take" is out.

AND WHERE will Hollywood get the necessary actor-type actors to stock the wide screens? Why, siad Mr. Koster, from Broadway. He predicts that Hollywood raids on Broadway in the near future will make the old Sioux forays on the Great Plains seem like heap small potatoes.

"Hollywood will have to work closer to Broadway," Mr. Koster said. Then he thoughtfully administered another cup of hemlock. "We already get all our fine material from there anyway. I spent last January in New York, raiding Broadway for 'The Robe' and I shall continue to raid for future productions."

The close-up, beloved of Hollywood actors, is on the way out, too. Even an actor with two heads could no longer fill the wide screen in a close-up. There 's all that vacant space on each side of the wide screen. The actor either looks silly or "deserted," Mr. Koster explaned.

BUT IF the close-up is on the wane, and if stars must be able to act in future Hollywood epics, there is one consolation left the movie colony: hardly anyone will end up on the cutting-room floor, always the fate worse than death.

The new screen is all silver and a mile wide, more less, and there's room for everybody in every scene, Mr. Koster declared.

"Name a half dozen pretty movie stars who will survive the wide screen revolution," I asked.

'A half dozen?" creid Mr. Koster. "That's not easy!" But he thought hard and came up with the answer. The six who will survive, in his opinion, because they can act are Jean Simmons, June Allyson, Ann Blythe, Susan Hayward, Bette Davis and Katharine Hepburn.

HOW I LOST 66 LBS. WITHOUT DIETING

BUCYRUS, OHIO—"I used Rennel Concentrate for six months, and lost 66 lbs. It's wonderful, because I never had to go hungry while losing this weight," writes Ruth Riley, 530 Park Ave. "I am 50 years of age, and my health is greatly improved I can't praise Rennel enough for what it has done for me."

It's amazing how quickly you can lose pounds of bulky fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's no trouble and costs little. Ask your druggist for 4 ounces of liquid RENNEL CONCENTRATE. Pour this into pint bottle and add unsweetened grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. It's that simple. If reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't seem to disappear almost like magic with the first bottle, return it to the manufacturer for your money back. Note how bloat disappears—how much better you feel. Now is the time to reduce. Ask your druggist for RENNEL. Costs only $1.40.

Get Your Gas Furnace Ready for Winter Now!

Call your heating contractor or dealer early . . . ask him to check these 12 points so your gas furnace will be ready for the winter ahead.

1. Examine flue pipe to see that it is adequately supported and free of holes and rust spots.
2. Examine the chimney to see if it is free of soot and rubble.
3. Inspect the interior of the furnace to (a) make sure the burner head is clean (b) make sure the firepot or combustion chamber is free of cracks or open joints.
4. Check the water level on boilers.
5. Inspect filters in forced air systems. Clogged filters are the greatest single source of high gas bills and insufficient heat. Remove all filters from hot air registers. Steel wool or cheesecloth filters should never be used in registers . . . they prevent free circulation of air and waste a large amount of heat by blocking its flow, thus causing basement and furnace to overheat.
6. Oil all fan and pump motors, control motors, and other moving parts that require oil. Correct lubrication, according to manufacturer's specifications, is important.
7. Inspect the burner and draft controls to make sure they are adjusted for economical operation.
8. Make sure that the safety pilot is adjusted properly and tested. It is one of the most essential controls in safe operation.
9. Check all furnace controls, including automatic gas valve, etc. to make sure they function properly.
10. Inspect thermostat to make sure it is not influenced by warm air registers, lamps, etc.
11. Check for leaks that can rust the furnace, and clean off accumulated rust and scale where furnace is equipped with a humidifier.
12. For further gas economy, why not consider insulation, weather-stripping, storm sash and doors, and other conservation practices.

Call a reliable heating contractor or dealer today, and ask him to put your furnace on his schedule.

Get your request in now to have the pilot on your gas furnace lighted. The requests for pilot lighting and servicing of gas furnaces are so great, that you must make arrangements now, to be certain you will have the heat you want at the first cold snap.

Periodic check-ups on your gas heating plant insure continuous, efficient, economical operation. Like any piece of mechanical equipment, gas furnaces can deliver top performance only if they are given proper maintenance and adjustment.

See the Yellow Pages of your phone book for a list of heating contractors and dealers.

AP Photographer, Pilot Friend Thwarted in Attempt

Noel Tells of Effort To Escape by Stealing Plane

(Editor's note: Frank Noel, AP photographer and Pulitzer Prize winner in 1943, came back from more than 32 months in a Communist prison camp on Aug. 9. In this second of a series of three stories he tells of the thwarted plan of an American pilot with whom he escaped to steal a Russian-made MIG 15 jet fighter and fly it to an American base.)

By FRANK NOEL
As Told to Olen Clements

TOKYO (AP) — In the minds of prisoners—whether it is Leavenworth or a Communist hole in North Korea—escape always is running through your mind.

Four times I planned to escape. Once I did.

It was with a pilot, Capt. Zachary Dean of Kansas. It happened in August, 1951.

I had been a prisoner of the Communists then nearly a year. Dean, a P51 pilot, was shot down in April, 1951. He was a bridegroom of six days.

First I'll give you the picture. Escape in a country where you can't speak the language, read the road signs, show your face at all, is something that must be thought out.

Dean, a lanky Kansan with the guts of a lion, wanted to steal a MIG15 and fly it back to an airfield in South Korea. Being Air Force he knew how much those things were worth. So we planned to swim the Yalu, sneak down around Antung, Manchuria, lie up around the airport a few days, and watch the Chinese security guards. Eventually he planned to snatch a hot jet and fly it away.

I was going to steal a fishing boat or bribe or clobber somebody and get out the best way I could.

There were three of us invoved in the escape plot.

We began to connive, scrape food bowls for leftovers and horde up everything we could lay hands on that we could eat or use for trading or bribery.

Communists are easy to bribe.

We knew the route from the camp we were going to take. It was through a corn patch. But the corn wasn't high enough. So we watched that corn grow, kept an eye on the moon and bided our time.

One stormy night looked like the night. We were ready.

The third man had just come down with yellow jaundice.

Dean and I decided to go it alone. That is not good because in that country you might sprain an ankle tripping over undergrowth. It is best that three men go together just in case of illness, injury or to keep watch while the other two slept.

But Dean and I were eager.

We sneaked out into that corn patch.

The rain was beating down. We had all our possessions—Dean's wrist watch, two or three fountain pens, about $10 in greenbacks I had borrowed from Turkish prisoners, a straight razor Dean had stolen from the company barber shop, a Boy Scout knife I had, a couple of rocks and the cover for a sleeping bag which we were going to use for a sail on any small boat we might steal.

We got through that corn patch all right. Then we hit a wood and tripped over the undergrowth and I slid down an embankment that left my derrier bare. I think it was an open grave the Reds had dug. We floundered around there and got going again.

It was black as pitch. We didn't know it but we had night blindness due to a lack of vitamins. We stumbled on and pretty soon we came to a little opening. Blindly I walked on, fell over a fence and right into a pig sty.

Well, that damned pig wanted no human company. He squealed and mouthed around there until he woke up the Korean farmer. The farmer poked his head out of a window, a cigarette glowing, but he never did come out.

We held our breath.

Nothing happened. We would have killed that pig if we had a weapon.

The rain was beating down on those corn stalk leaves, making a sound that is conducive to sleep. That lulled the pig and that North Korean. The pig quit squealing. The Korean quit smoking. Dean and I stole silently away.

It took us most all night but we swam the half-mile wide lake and got over on the other side of it. Probably all night long we walked. Yet we didn't make over a mile from the camp. But we had the lake between us and the camp.

We slept all day in some bushes.

It was raining and we were wringing wet.

We were heading for the Yalu, going to swim across.

Trails in that country all have security guards on them. We travelled only at night, of course, and we couldn't see much on account of this lack of vitamins. We almost bumped into two or three guard huts but escaped.

That night we had a talk.

Dean said:

"I'm going to steal a MIG. (MIGs can not carry any passengers) and I'll have to go it alone. What are you going to do?"

"I'll stick with you until you take off then I'll go on down the coast, steal a boat, bribe a fisherman or something and try to make it down south of the 38th Parallel or hit an Allied carrier or something out in the Yellow Sea and go aboard it.'

We decided we would stick together until the MIG stealing because you can never tell, a guy might get sick, break a leg traipsing around at night like that or something. You know how it is.

Our tobacco was wet. The book Dean brought along so we could tear the pages out of it to roll cigarettes was all wet.

We were miserable.

But we were free.

That night we stumbled right into a Korean road block.

There were a couple of guards in the hut and they heard us. They stumbled out in their underwear, carrying those bamboo pike spears of theirs and making a lot of noise because they were scared. Like a couple of schoolboys in a graveyard at night.

They looked around, went back into the hut and closed the hut door.

Dean and I took off in high gear.

We jumped in behind a high clay embankment facing the lake. Ten or 15 minutes later the Koreans came yak-yaking down the road.

We were trying to roll cigarettes and were not paying any attention to the noise the Koreans were making coming down the road. They were scared of their own shadows, and we knew it.

We just shut down everything. They walked right past us. Their wet tennis shoes squished.

Then we sneaked up on a hill, hid in some bushes all day, because we knew we had been detected.

It was good and dark when we stirred. Only Dean had a watch.

Dean began to get sick. His back hurt. There was a swelling in his groins. He had hepatitis. He belonged to the old Yellow Eye Club back in camp.

Oh, yes, I forgot. The Chinese innoculated 120 of us with the same needle. The last 20 or so, you could hear the needle as it screwed its way through the tissues.

It was jaundice Dean had. There was no mistake.

Dean was very sick.

"I can't go any farther," he said. "We've got to find a hiding place for a couple of days?

When you get jaundice our camp doctors, who had treated the other 27 of that 120 who came down wit it, had tod us you must lie still and take as much sugar as possible. Of course, we had no sugar but Dean knew that.

We had to find a place to hide. We were on a high hill. The clouds went floating by.

Up there they stack brush to let it dry out and that was what we were looking for. But we couldn't find any.

Finally we saw a cowshed and crawled in there. Dean felt bad. He wanted to smoke and so did I.

We had been three days and nights in a torrential rain. We were cold. We wanted warm food. We saw the farm compound.

We decided we'd take a chance. Maybe they wouldn't turn us in. Dean could get two or three days rest.

We made a mistake.

There were about seven families in it. That's where your communism comes in. One of them turned us in. We'd taken a long shot and lost.

They did give us warm food, kindness, dry tobacco. Then the insiduousness of communism reared its ugly head. They had to tell the Gestapo. Too many people had seen us.

It was that old snitch government, that shotgun diplomacy again. The Koreans could not trust their fellow Communists. Somebody had to report us, we knew. So we started to leave.

We got out on the road. We didn't know it but we were only six kilometers from the Yalu. We knew its direction and we started that way. These Koreans said that we should go the other way.

We said we are going our way.

Dean offered them his watch. They grabbed us.

Dean was much taller so two of the three men who were trying to detain us grabbed him and one grabbed me on the left shoulder.

I grabbed his thumb and doubled it up. It must have hurt him to his elbow. He was at my mercy.

Dean whipped out this razor he

Dean whipped out this razor he stole from the company barber and he made a couple of swipes at his two tormentors. They retreated to the embankment.

I didn't let go of that thumb.

I knew he was hurting up to his elbow. I bet he hasn't got that untangled yet.

Dean, who was free, said:

"What the hell are we going to do?"

I said:

"Let's get over in that cornfield and fight them if they find us."

So we made a couple of "S" turns and dived into that cornfield and under some climbing bean vines the Koreans always have in their cornfields. We laid there in the mud for about an hour.

Then they found us. The kids found us.

They turned about 50 boys between 10 and 12 loose to look for us.

They found us and raised hell. We were captured by a bunch of kids. We didn't want to kick their little teeth out.

Then the grown folks moved in. They bound our arms behind us and bound us together with ropes. Dean told them he'd give them his watch. If we had had two, we'd have been free.

When we walked, we almost goose-stepped. We must have looked ridiculous.

Then Dean broke out with dysentry. It was bad.

There we were tied, together.

They said we had to march back the whole 27 miles we had come from the camp.

Dean was sick, bad. Have you ever been tied to a man with dysentery on the road? When he took a step I took a step. When he did anything I had to assume the same position.

They never let us loose until we got back to the camp.

Then they threw us in the hole—Dean for two months. I got six.

Neither of us served the full sentence but the Communists never let us forget that we still had part of our sentence hanging over our heads.

Dean served about 32 days in that hole—an abandoned, uncleaned latrine.

I served about 42 days. because Dean's sentence originally was shorter than mine, in a better hole which was not a latrine. But it stank.

They gave us flea-laden uniforms and those fleas hit us like they had fish hooks for snozzles. It was bad.

But we were lucky. We thought we'd be shot.

One thing I'm pretty proud of was when those sentences were pronounced.

There was a small (maybe I imagined this) but it seemed a very small amount of applause rose from that camp of 1600 men in Camp 5.

There was complete silence from the officers.

I was the prize reactionary.

But when I hit the hole, and I shall be ever grateful for this, the officers, with whom I had been quartered, sent a petition to the Reds saying that I was down to 125 pounds and they did not think I could survive a six-month sentence in the hole.

Well, after that the Communists would bring me out of the hole, in which neither of us could stand up, lie down or relax, and they suggested that I write to my correspondent friends at Panmunjom and my newspaper friends, including some publishers in the United States.

They put 60 watt lights in my face. They wanted strictly favorable propaganda. That is Communism.

The Communists — they are bastards.

Milk Output Lower During June, Still Leads Consumption

Even though the production of milk dropped from 123 billion pounds in the early part of the year to 116 billion pounds in June, production is still above consumption, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture said this week.

The excess is being used in making butter, cheese, and nonfat dry milk. Consumption has not changed since last year, when each person inthe country consumed 352 pounds of milk during the year.

While the use of butter has increased this year due to the school lunch programs, the use of nonfat dry milk has decreased, mainly because of the increasing supply of fresh milk to southern states where dry milk had been widely used.

Marion Lions Hear Address By Farm Agent

Arthur Smith Tells Club of Modern Agricultural Methods

Arthur Smith, Marion County agriculture extension agent, spoke to members of the Lions Club on modern developments in agriculture at their regular weekly meeting Monday at Hotel Harding.

He pointed out the increases in grain and other farm produce in the past 100 to 150 years and talked about the necessities for the increases due to the increase in population.

Smith said the limiting factor on food production was not the ability to produce but rather the desire to produce more and to use modern methods. Fifteen per cent of the population in the United States, he said, is farmers feeding the other 85 per cent of the nation.

In other countriess where standards of living are lower, Smith said, 85-90 per cent of the people are farmers. Because of their lack of desire to produce and to use modern methods, Smith reported, they are unable to properly feed the rest of their population.

Smith spoke on the differences in standards of living because of the desire and methods. He was introduced by Bob Bush, program chairman.

Robert Scott, governor of District 13-E, was presented a 10-year perfect attendance pin by Jackson Taft, Lions Club president.

Various announcements were made and assignments for the ox roast at the fairgrounds during the fair and the charity bazaar Sept. 24, 25 and 26 were made. Ray Semmler is chairman of the ox roast and Marion Hinklin and James Sloan are co-chairman of the bazaar.

Guests were C. M. Gorby, Warren Hall, Emanual Babich, all of Marion, Vince Krausz of Cleveland, Richard Lawrence of near Marion, Vern Hopkins of Loudenville and Charles Bowen of Jackson, a visiting Lion.

Next week's luncheon will be held in the new Harding cafeteria and the program will be a tour of the new high school. Marion Hinklin and Cecil Gabler are in charge of arrangements for the program. Other Marion service clubs have the same program during the rest of the week.

Yanks, Dodgers Set Goal at 100 Wins

SHUCKS, HE STRUCK OUT! Bob Bingham of Santa Maria, Calif., is 12. He was a mighty tearful lad when this picture was made, just after he struck out—for the final out with two teammates on base—in a Little League tournament finals game at Santa Monica, Calif. Vancouver, B.C., won the title with a 1 to 0 no hitter.

Both Teams Widen Lead; New York Cops 2, Sox Idle

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports Writer

Now that the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers virtually have run off and hidden from the rest of the clubs, they're working on a little intramural competition to hold their interest.

Their new goal is 100 victories each, well within range but still a mark that will keep them hustling.

The Dodgers with 39 games left need to win 22 to hit the century mark—a figure reached by only two other Booklyn clubs in history. The Yankees will have to win 21 of their last 38. Yankee teams in the past have reached 100 or more eight times, but not in the last 11 years.

Both the Yankees and Dodgers fattened their margins over their nearest rivals last night. The New Yorkers won a pair of one-sided games fom Philadelphia 10-3 and 9-0 and moved nine games in front of the idle Chicago White Sox.

Brooklyn came from behind on Duke Snider's two-run homer in the ninth and then beat Pittsburgh 5-2 on Gil Hodges' three-run blast in the 11th. The Dodgers gained half a game on the unscheduled Milwaukee Braves and lead by 8½ games.

In the only other activity the New York Giants and the Philadelphia Phillies split a pair in the privacy of the spacious Polo Grounds. Only 2,885 cash customers watched the Phils win the first game 5-2 and bow in the second 6-0.

The Phils clinched the first game with four runs in the eighth inning off Dave Koslo, who had started his first game since June 23. The Giants took the nightcap from Andy Hansen, who was making his first start in three years.

Johnny Lindell tamed the Dodgers on three hits until Bobby Morgan opened the ninth with a single and Snider followed on the next pitch with his 28th homer. In the 11th Lindell got into immediate trouble by walking Snider and Jackie Robinson and running the count to 3 and 1 on Hodges. The big first baseman then found the left field stands with his 26th home run.

Yogi Berra hit his 21st home run in the Yankees' first-game romp. Whitey Ford picked up his 15th victory, tops on the New York mound staff, but he had to have help from Tom Gorman in the seventh. In the second game the Yankees opened with five runs, more than enough for Bob Kuzava, who scattered 11 hits effectively enough to score a shutout.

Five Other Schools Said In Line for NCAA Action

By TOM BRANAGAN

CHICAGO (AP)—With the name of mighty Notre Dame added to its disciplinary list, the National Collegiate Athletic Association turned to other investigations today.

A spokesman said five more schools are involved in charges of violating the NCAA's athletic code but that investigations are incomplete. The schools were not named.

Notre Dame—along with Michigan State and Arizona State—was reprimanded by the NCAA's 17-man council, a policy-making group, at the close of its meeting yesterday.

Michigan State already had been put on probation by the Big Ten conference because of the activities of an off-campus "foundation" which allegedly aided athletes. The council said it supported this action.

All three schools were cited for permitting campus tryouts of prospective athletes. Neither Notre Dame nor Michigan State received any specific punishment but Arizona State, at Tempe, was put on two years' probation.

In addition to permitting tryouts, the Arizona school was charged with permitting pay to athletes. As a further punishment, all its athletes were ruled ineligible for NCAA championship events for the 1953-54 school year.

Notre Dame and Arizona State admitted doing wrong but grumbled about the severity of the NCAA's action. Michigan State, which protested loudly after the Big Ten's probation was announced reacted mildly to the NCAA pronouncement. Said Ralph Young, athletic director:

"We're hoping that the Big Ten probation will be lifted soon. We are observing all Big Ten and NCAA rules in every way, shape and manner."

The Rev. Edmund P. Joyce, CSC, executive vice president of Notre Dame, said Irish coaches had used a "modified type of tryout." He said the university stopped the practice when it learned of it last January and invoked "disciplinary measures" against the coaches.

Arizona State's president, Dr. Grady Gammage, said, "We know there were infractions . . . Our house has been put in order."

Carey Grid Team To Open Practice

CAREY — The Carey High School Blue Devils will open football training Thursday morning with the issuing of equipment to an almost entirely new team.

The Blue Devil squad lost heavily by graduation of such stars as Orians, Cole, Nye, Williams, Tackett, Fox and others but even so a large turnout is expected. Coach Merl R. Atkins said all positions are wide open.

The Blue Devils open in a preview at Findlay Sept. 11.

Fight Results

BROOKLYN — Billy Peacock, 117½, Los Angeles, outpointed Henry Gault, 118; Spartanburg, S. C. 12 (for North American bantamweight championship).

SALT LAKE CITY — Nack Nelson, 184, Tooele, Utah, drew with Chuck Woodworth, 184, Provo, Utah, 10.

VFW Wins 1-0 To Take Title In Pony Loop

VFW won the second round of Pony League competition in a playoff game at Lincoln Park Monday night. They managed to score in the last of the seventh and dropped G & G Builders, 1-0. VFW also took the first - round championship making them the 1953 Pony League champions.

G & G got its only hit of the game in the first inning when Anspaugh led off with a double. The remainder of the game the losers were handcuffed by the pitching of Dave Gallimore. Almost equally fine was the pitching of G & G hurler, Bob Lister, who gave up only three hits and struck out 15 batters.

VFW got its only run when Luke walked, stole second, advanced to third on a wild throw and scored on a wild pitch. Luke was the only man Lister sent to first on balls. The other two hits were by Shoemaker in the first and Remmy in the fourth.

As the season ended, the standings were VFW, G & G Builders, Alloy Cast Steel and Clark Metal Products, in that order. Bob Shoemaker was the VFW manager and helping Bob coach the team were Mike Anderson, Charles Gruber and Don Shoemaker.

IHL Directors To Hold Board Meeting Here

The International Hockey League will hold a meeting of its Board of Directors at the Harding Hotel tomorrow to complete plans for the 1953-54 season.

The League, under the presidency of Frank Gallagher of Detroit, has been one of the most successful circuits in organized hockey. Originally it included several Canadian cities, but as arenas were built in the midwest the Canadian clubs were replaced with American teams.

At the present time, in addition to Marion, other cities represented in the International Hockey League are: Cincinnati, Toledo, Troy, Fort Wayne, Milwaukee, Louisville and Grand Rapids. Johnstown, Pa. has bid for a franchise and there is a chance the directors may admit them at the meeting tomorrow.

Representing Marion will be the Barons' president, Frank Foster, and Tony Hemmerling, who was named general manager of the Barons last week.

Following the meeting there will be a dinner for the members of the press and radio of Central Ohio.

Qualifying Begins In Caddie Tourney

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The National Caddie Golf Tournament, which could mean a college education for any of 61 youngsters, gets under way today with a 36-hole qualifying round over the Ohio State University course.

Caddies from all over the country have their sights set on $5,350 in scholarship prize money.

The eighth annual tournament will continue through Saturday. Match play begins tomorrow.

Among the favorites are Southern California's Frank Beville and Harold Blake and Bill Fraley of Huntington, W. Va. Jim Lucis, 18-year-old pre-tourney choice from Northfield, Minn., was declared ineligible because he already has reached 18. Lucius was runner-up last year.

Prize money was raised at yesterday's celebrity tournament.

Musial Climbs In Hitting Race

NEW YORK (AP)—"The patient is recovering and gaining rapidly."

That bulletin might well be issued today on the condition of Stan Musial's hitting as the St. Louis Cardinals' outfielder strives for his seventh National League batting championship.

Musial currently is batting .316, ninth highest in the senior circuit. But a couple of good days will put him within striking distance of Monte Irvin, the NL's pace-setter.

Irvin, New York Giants' outfielder, has been on the shelf with an injured ankle since Aug. 9, and has held on to his No. 1 spot with a .339 average. Carl Furillo of the Brooklyn Dodgers is second with .333 followed by Cincinnati's Ted Kluszewski at .331.

In the American League, Mickey Vernon of the Washington Senators is leading with a .331 mark. Minnie Minoso of the Chicago White Sox has zoomed into the runner-up position only two points back. Minnie gained 13 points last week while Vernon tailed off four.

FILLS GRID SPOT

LOUDONVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Robbert A. Carroll, 30-year-old assistant football coach at Newcomerstown High School in Tuscarawas County the last three years, has been named head grid coach at Loudonville High. He succeeds Dean Trimmer, who quit to join the staff of the new Marion-Franklin school near Columbus.

Trinity Baptist Clinches Tie For Laurels in Second Round

Trinity Baptist clinched a tie for the second round championship of the Church Softball League Monday at Garfield Park by defeating Wesley Methodist, 5-4. The Church League resumed action Monday after a two-week layoff due to district tournament play.

Trinity completed its total of six second round games with a record of five wins and one loss. The only team in position to tie the Baptists is St. Mary No. 1, perennial Church league leaders who have a record of four wins and one loss with one game remaining. Should the Irish squad drop the Church of the Brethren next week it will be forced to playoff the second round tie with Trinity. A win by the Brethren would give Trinity second round honors.

Trinity reached Jess Davis of Wesley for six hits including a home run by Tom McClain in the sixth inning with the sacks empty to record its fifth victory. The winners overcame a 3-1 deficit in the sixth when they scored the tieing run and added the winning marker in the seventh frame. Bill Trimmer gave up a total of four hits in the seven innings he worked.

St. Mary No. 1 rolled to an easy 12-2 victory over Greenwood in a game which was called after the conclusion of five innings. The winners pounded out a total of 14 hits including a four-ply swat by Howie Richardson with Larry Lesser on base. Steve Norris gave the Greenwood nine only five hits.

The Church of the Brethren ruined St. Mary No. 2 chances for a second round tie for first place with a 9-4 thumping in the final game. The Brethren raced to a 5-2 lead in the fourth frame and were never in trouble after the fifth when St. Mary added its final two tallies. A four-run burst in the sixth iced the game for the Brethren.

Tribe's Big 3 To Get Chance At 20 Victories

DETROIT (AP)—Fourteen games out of first and facing an uphill battle to regain second, the Cleveland Indians may yet become the first club in 53 years of American League play to have three 20-victory winners three straight seasons.

Manager Al Lopez says he will give Bob Lemon, Mike Garcia and Early Wynn every opportunity to win the honor two years running.

"If any one of them is a game or two short of 20 when the season is about over, I'll give 'em a chance to go for it," Lopez said.

Two of the Big Three are scheduled to lead off the three-game series with the Detroit Tigers—Garcia tonight against his old Cleveland roommate, Steve Gromek, and Wynn tomorow.

Lemon, shooting for his fifth 20-victory season in the last six campaigns, has the best chance of making it. His record is 16-12. Each of the trio will have about nine starts in the Tribe's remaining 40 games, and Wynn needs seven victories while Garcia requires six.

Only one other American League team has had three 20-game winners two years in a row—the Boston Red Sox of 1903-04. The great Cy Young had 28 and 26; Bill Dineen 21 and 23, and Tom Hughes won 21 in 1903 and Jesse Tannehill 21 in 1904 to complete the trios.

Lemon missed the 20-game circle in 1951, when Wynn and Garcia just made it with 20-13 marks, but Bob Feller completed the threesome with 2-8. Feller was 13-9 last year and curently is 6-6.

MEET TRAINING SCHOOL

West Town Merchants softball team will play the Marion Training School in a game scheduled to begin at 6 p.m. tomorrow on the Training School diamond. West Town players are asked to meet at Parish Marathon Service Station at 5:30 p.m.

Pierce, Spahn Lead Leagues

NEW YORK (AP)—Billy (The Kid) Pierce, who has emerged as a top-flight American League pitcher this year, and Warren Spahn, one of the National's best since 1947, lead their respective circuits in earned run averages today.

Pierce, slender Chicago White Sox southpaw, has given up only 49 earned runs in 201 innings for a 2.19 mark. He has hurled three straight shutouts in his most recent starts and hasn't been scored on in 34 2-3 innings. Billy has won 16 games, his major league high, and lost seven.

Spahn, a 20-game winner in four of his seven big league campaigns, has permitted 45 earned runs in 1853 frames for a 2.21 average. The 32-year-old Milwaukee lefthander has a 16-5 record this year.

Virgil Trucks, another White Sox pitching ace, is runner - up to Pierce in the American League with a 2.54 ERA.

Robin Roberts, the major leagues' only 20-game winner, is second in the National League with a 2.55 earned run average.

NL's Home Run Leaders Meet At Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP)—The National League's two leading home run swatters match bats tonight as the Milwaukee Braves invade Crosley Field for a two-game series.

Eddie Mathews, young Milwaukee third baseman, holds a one circuit-clout edge over Cincinnati first baseman Ted Kluszewski, 37-36.

The home-run race depends, of course, on pitching. Redlegs manager Rogers Hornsby is banking on Fred Baczewski (7-2) to stop Milwaukee as he has done twice before.

He will be opposed by Max Surkont (11-5), three-time winner over the Rhinelanders, or Johnny Antonelli (9-8).

Whenever a Redleg hits a homer, he sets a new record. This year's team has clouted 139, well above the old mark of 110 set by the 1938 club.

After tomorow's day game, the sixth-placers travel to St. Louis for three games. Then the Cincinnatians swing to Pittsburgh for the fourth and final swing of the season in the East.

Golfers Resume Title Matches

Oberlander and Jack Vornholt eliminated Newt Minard in Class A competition. Rife will play Graham and Line will play Vornholt Sunday.

Charleston Whips Blues in AA Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two games were played in the American Association Monday night and only one of them went to a decision.

Charleston beat Kansas City 5-2. St. Paul and Indianapolis played nine innings to a 4-4 tie and then had to quit to catch trains.

Other teams were not scheduled.

Eighth-inning doubles by Jim Basso and Vinnie Palumbo broke a 2-2 stalemate and pushed Charleston to its win over the Blues. The victory, pitched by Red Fahr, broke a six-game losing streak for the Senators.

Wall Wins by Two Over Cary Middlecoff

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa., was never behind as he defeated Cary Middlecoff of Memphis by two strokes in a playoff for the Fort Wayne Open golf title yesterday.

His $2,400 check was the first winner's prize he had pocketed in two years on the tournament circuit. Middlecoff took $1,800.

Wall's 70 and Middlecoff's 72 were anticlimactic. They shot the fourth round Sunday in 65s, and Middlecoff set a record for the Elks Country Club with a 62 Friday.

Now It's Official; St. Louis Brownies' Out of Flag Chase

ST. LOUIS (AP)—It was only a matter of time, but the St. Louis Browns no longer have a chance of winning the American League pennant.

The Brownies became the first American League team to be mathematically eliminated from the flag chase yesterday when the league-leading Yankees won the first part of a twi-night twin bill against the Philadelphia A's.

The victory gave the Yankees 78 triumphs for the year. The Browns only have won 41 and a clean sweep of all of their remaining 36 tilts would give them only 77 wins.

Yesterday STARS

Batting—Duke Snider, Brooklyn Dodgers, collected three of Brooklyn's seven hits in the Dodgers' 5-2, 11-inning victory over Pittsburgh, including a ninth - inning homer that tied the score.

Pitching — Bob Kuzava, New York Yankees, gave up 11 hits but scattered them so well he pitched a shutout over Philadelphia, 9-0.

Mexico Gets Frijoles From South America

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico is going all the way to South Africa for its frijoles, the staple bean which with tortillas forms the basic diet of much of the population.

Officials said that 500 tons of frijoles have arrived at Vera Cruz from South Africa.

Higher Corn Price Hinges on Storage

Farmers will be able to get higher prices for their corn this year if they provide adequate storage facilities, according to an article in the magazine, Capper's Farmer.

The article says inadequate storing places forced many farmers to sell their corn at 50 cents a bushel under the loan price last year. The magazine says the government has extended for one year the loan program under which a farmer can borrow up to 80 per cent of the cost of a storage place at four per cent interest with four years to pay.

Some farmers have instituted the plan of building a storage place which can later be converted to a farrowing house, brooder house, two-car garage, or machine shed. Others are building pole cribs at a low price which can also be used as a hay self-feeder.

Another possibility which the magazine suggests is remodeling older buildings for storage use. It points out, though, that most buildings have not been built to withstand the high pressures on the sides exerted by grain storage.

The article warns that no matter what type storage building is used, it should be designed to provide ventilation, protect against weather, rodents and theft and maintain quality for a three-year period.

Veeck Rumored Set To Move Browns to LA

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bill Veeck has promised Los Angeles county and city officials that if they can purchase the local baseball park the American League will permit him to bring the St. Louis Browns' major league franchise here next year, The Times said today.

The park is owned by P. K. Wrigley, who holds the franchise both for the Los Angeles Angels of the Pacific Coast League and the Chicago Cubs of the National League.

Paul Zimmerman, sports editor of The Times, said Veeck made his proposition to constituted authorities here during a visit several weeks ago.

Last spring Veeck made an unsuccessful attempt to move the Browns to Baltimore when other American League owners turned down his bid. Later the National League approved transfer of the Boston Braves franchise to Milwaukee.

Employers Owe Money To Federal Government

CINCINNATI (AP) — Some 2,000 employers in southwestern Ohio owe the federal government more than 1½ million dollars withheld as taxes from employes but never turned over to the Treasury.

Russell A. Welch, district director for the Internal Revenue Service, said yesterday the money represents Social Security and income taxes.

Employes will not be penalized for their employers' failure to pay up. The government is trying to collect the money, in some instances through civil suits.

Writer Compiles Own 'Kinsey Report'

By SAUL PETT
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP)—The Kinsey report on women will be out Thursday. Why wait?

The Pett report is out today.

It is based on interviews with women, even arguments—on 35 years of non-objective observation, on rumor and gossip, on prejudice and bias regardless of race, creed or color, and on long conversations with many men.

The Pett report shows that:

53.5 per cent of married women would have more children if only they had a full-time maid.

34 per cent of women of all ages say "yes" more often than men because men aren't asked as often.

78 per cent of the women who wear low cut dresses pretend to be annoyed when men stare.

87.8 per cent of women of all ages are prettier than men.

53.9 per cent of married women think that 98.9 per cent of the other married women are better off.

86.7 per cent of married women will merely hold out their hands in the general direction of their husband. Then they complain bitterly when he doesn't immediately understand they want a cigarette.

74.3 per cent of the women in America who play poker play with all the red cards wild.

Before marriage, 74 per cent of women talk about marriage being a "two-way street." After marriage, 73 per cent make it a one-way.

99.8 per cent of women of all ages will disagree violently with what they just read.

YEARNS FOR FREEDOM. Rufus, the restless hornbill, turns his back on his mate as he gazes out the window of a cage in the St. Louis birdhouse. He could be thinking of the freedom he once had, when he caused a flurry in New York's financial district last week. The Rufus Hornbills have been given new names by zoo officials. The name of "Sell High" has been given to Rufus, and his mate is called "Buy Low."

Statue to Boys in Blue Wears Confederate Gray

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—The Champlin Women's Relief Corps No. 41 of the Grand Army of the Republic had city officials pretty embarrassed today.

The irate ladies pointed out that a city statue erected years ago in memory of the "Boys in Blue" is painted Confederate gray. Furthermore, they said, the statue "leans a little toward the Mason-Dixon Line."

City Manager Millard Moore promised the statue would get a new coat of paint (blue) and a straightening-up job.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — Grains opened lower in quiet dealings on the Board of Trade today.

While selling pressure was not heavy, demand was very limited in all pits.

Movement of new crop wheat and oats to market in the northwest tended to depress those cereals.

Wheat started ½ to 1¼ lower, September $1.85¾, corn was 1 cent lower to ⅛ higher, September $1.46¼, oats were unchanged to ⅜ lower, September 76⅞—½, and soybeans were 1 cent lower to ¼ higher, September $2.43¾.

N.Y. Stock Quotations

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market edged ahead today after a faltering start.

There was no particular activity in the market and few features appeared.

Prices spread out over a range of around a point either way with plus signs predominating.

Trading was slow with volume at a rate right around yesterday's low 910,000 shares.

Motors were higher with Chrysler in demand at a major fractional advance. Most railroads and steels were ahead as were oils, copper, and utilities.

Some losses cropped out in chemicals, aircrafts, and radio-televisions, but they weren't serious.

General Electric, in brisk demand in recent days, was moderately active today and up a fraction. Wall Street noted rumors that the stock is ripe for a split.

Higher stocks included Southern Railway, Texas Co., U. S. gypsum, Consolidated Edison, Allied Chemical, U. S. Steel, General Motors, and United Aircraft.
